Russia's Name Gets Attention

FERNANDINA, Fla., July 19—Because of its deep sinister meaning and impact, the word "Russia" leaps from any printed page where it occurs, no matter how ancient the text.

In an old volume of history having to do with the federal blockade of the Confederate states, the word "Russia" started up from the lines far below those being read. On June 1, 1861, the blockade was made effective at the busy port of Fernandina by the warship Perry, commanded by Lt. Enoch Parrot.

On that first day he warned two ships away from the harbor, the Polka out of Bermuda, bound for a load of lumber, and the Juana Teresa out of Havana, Cuba, also seeking some of the great planks sawed from the hearts of pine along the St. Mary's River.

A third ship was halted coming out of the port. She was the Russian ship Salmi, loaded with pine timber. Her captain reported he was the last of foreign vessels in the river or the harbor, and was allowed to proceed.

Trade Essential

In that distant day, with the royal family secure on its throne, trade was a vital factor as it is today. And trade, despite the rule of the Soviets, more absolute and cruel than any ever dreamed by the maddest of emperors in the Kremlin, is a nightmare to the Soviet rulers today. Trade, or lack of it, shows through the torn places in the great cloak of secrecy which the Communists clutch about their doings. On the basis of what yet is a meager amount of knowledge, it is possible to assume even more firmly than before that the Russians will not go to war in the foreseeable future; will of necessity everywhere relax some of the more cruel and oppressive measures of the Stalin regime; and will carry out policy changes.

It is the satellite countries, gripped desperately with the claws of the Soviet bear, which enable one to make such assumptions. The East German riots have been put down with great force and ruthlessness. But, the basic food lacks and the failure of the Soviet planning remain to mock them and to require changes.

This will reach the Kremlin. Russia has systematically been taking food and goods from these captive countries, and if she cannot longer do it on the former scale, she must pull in her own belt.

Errors Admitted

Hungary, even more than East Germany, testifies eloquently to the fact that the necessary change in policy was not Beria's doing, but one agreed upon by Malenkov and others. In Hungary, there is a new premier. The old one, a close friend of the late Stalin, sat by and applauded as Moscow-trained Imre Nagy told a pleasantly surprised parliament that all the former Communist government has done was wrong. There had been, he said, too much hurry toward industrialization. The new emphasis would be on helping farmers produce more food and on production of more consumer goods for the people. Farmers, who had stubbornly resisted collective programs, heard the glad news they could once again have their individual farms. Fines imposed on peasants, who had not met grain quotas, were canceled.

Labor was told that serious errors had been made in requiring them to work too much with too little food and for wages which would buy little of what the inflated market afforded. Small business was encouraged, as it had been crushed. The intelligentsia was informed it would not be exterminated.

These same changes will of necessity be made in other captive countries. There must be some reflection of them in Russia itself.

The Kremlin cannot afford another Tito. And so, while Russia's long-term objective remains the same, namely to conquer the world and bind it to the Communist chariot wheels, she cannot go to war with hungry, non-producing satellites about her. She, too, must have time. And time, if we work hard and are patient, can be on our side.

Clark Expecting Early Truce After Enemy Agrees To Sign; Wary Washington Hopeful

Statement Eases Fears Of 'Stalling'

By JAY WALZ
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 19 — Yesterday's fears of enemy "stalling" at Panmunjom were partly dispelled by the Communist statement this morning of readiness to enter the preliminaries to the signing of a truce.

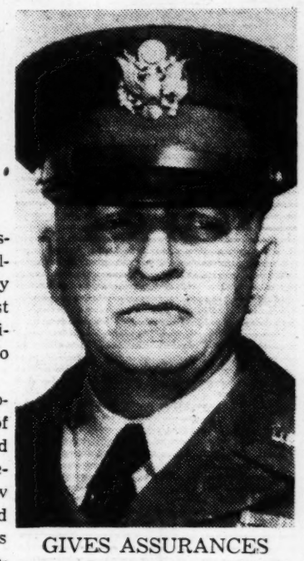

However, while the tone of diplomatic reaction today was one of encouragement, those who voiced it were aware they've been "hopeful several times in the past few weeks. The big question raised here was: Do the Communists mean it this time? Some diplomatic observers said they saw good evidence, based on the most recent statement and other reports reaching here lately, that the Communists seriously want an armistice.

The White House and the State Department, meanwhile, declined any comment of any kind. President Eisenhower was at his mountain retreat in the Maryland Catoctin Mountains. At the State Department, spokesmen said the official report would have to be studied carefully before there would be a formal statement.

Word of what had transpired at the truce negotiator's meeting was anxiously awaited here, because of growing concern toward the end of the week over previous postponements and the increased military activity on the fighting fronts. There was mounting belief that the situation was becoming graver, and, at the very least, was in a state of delicate balance.

The Communist announcement as it reached here in press dispatches eased the tension for the moment. Some sources thought that the "preparations," mentioned in the statement, as prerequisite to a truce signing, could be handled without pro-

Many Details Remain at Panmunjom

MUNSAN, July 20 — (AP) — The Communist high command agreed Sunday to go ahead immediately with "preparations prior to the signing" of an armistice, but set no date for the historic cease fire that will end more than three years of bloodshed and devastation in Korea.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations commander in the Far East, called the developments at Panmunjom "most encouraging" and said the progress "should lead to an early signing."

Just how soon the truce could be arranged Clark did not say, nor would anyone in official position hazard a guess on the date.

BREAK OFFICIAL SECRECY

The Communists broke the official secrecy of the two-hour, 27-minute Panmunjom negotiations during a recess to announce their readiness to proceed with a truce on the basis of Allied assurances that South Korea would not obstruct its terms.

Chief Red negotiator, North Korean Gen. Nam Il cited from the secret official record assurances by the UN command that the Republic of Korea would obey a truce. But Nam cautiously added that such assurances "will only be accepted at their face value."

The Communist statement also disclosed that the Allies promised not to support Republic of Korea forces should the South Koreans break the truce terms by "aggressive actions."

SOME DETAILS LACKING

There still were details to be worked out. Clark and the Reds stipulated that some points remain to be decided before an effective truce could be signed. Once signed, the truce would call for an end to the fighting within 12 hours and withdrawal of fighting forces from the battle line to form a two and one-half mile buffer zone within 72 hours.

Two groups of Allied and Communist staff officers met at the Panmunjom site today and both groups recessed before noon. An official notice pointed out that the sessions were on the staff officer level—not merely liaison officers.

The Communist agreed yester-

Reds Take 2 Marine Outposts

SEOUL, Monday, July 20 (AP)—More than 2,000 Chinese swarmed through a curtain of steel early today and engulfed two U. S. Marine outposts on the Korean Western Front.

In their last hurried message, the Leathernecks on the twin outposts—Berlin and East Berlin—called in their own artillery fire on top of them.

BUILD-UP CONTINUES

On the Western Front the Chinese assault was the first since the Reds hit the Kumsong sector of the Central Front last week. In reporting the action, the U. S. 8th Army disclosed also that the Marines had been back at the front since July 8 after being in reserve.

The Marines were shelled savagely at 10 p. m. last night. By 10:30 p. m. more than 5,000 rounds had hit one outpost and two beefed-up Chinese battalions began the assault.

CALL FOR SHELL FIRE

At 1:23 p. m., the Leathernecks called for Allied artillery fire—which had been ringing the outposts—to zero in the outposts themselves. It was their last message.

The Reds were seen on the crest of East Berlin at 12:25 a. m. today. Berlin had fallen before midnight. At 2:12 a. m. the Reds were observed carrying their dead and wounded off both hills. It was not known whether any Marines survived.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force announced Sabre jets Sunday shot down nine Red MIG 15s in North Korean air battles near the Manchurian border, probably destroyed a 10th and damaged three more.

HEART ATTACK VICTIM
Ex-Labor Chief Tobin

Truman's Labor Chief Tobin Dies

SCITUATE, Mass., July 19—(AP)—Maurice J. Tobin, 52, secretary of labor in the Truman cabinet from 1948 until the Republicans took over early this year, died today of a heart attack at his summer home here.

The verdict was given by Medical Examiner Hubert Blanchard who said he was told by the family that Tobin felt fine when he arose and was stricken shortly after 8 a.m. He had played golf yesterday at the Scituate Country Club.

In Independence, Mo., former President Truman said he was a great mayor of Boston, a great governor of Massachusetts and he made one of the best secretaries of labor the country ever had. "I'm shocked. The country is losing a very great man and I hate to see this happen. His family has all my sympathy."

Tobin's rise from a poor newsboy to secretary of labor was by way of minor offices in Boston to become one of the city's youngest mayors and governor at the age of 43.

Since leaving the cabinet posts Tobin had been a director of Grayson Robinson Co., New York City.

Tobin's first political office was as state representative from his Roxbury hometown section in 1927.

Road Crashes Kill 11; 3 Die Near Calhoun

By The Associated Press

A fiery Sunday morning crash near Calhoun pushed Georgia week-end highway death toll to 11. Three of the victims were little girls.

In the Calhoun crash a Negro family of three was killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding collided with a truck, crashed off a bridge and burned on a rail bed 40 feet below.

The dead were identified by the State Patrol as Capers Alfonso Fuce, 28, of Chicago, Ill.; his wife Dorothy, 27, and their nine-month-old daughter Denise.

DENSE FOG

The truck driver, identified as Horace Greely Watkins, Canton, said the car was traveling south on Highway 41 two miles north of Calhoun and met him on the bridge in a dense fog. The car, after the collision, ripped up 40 feet of bridge railing before crashing down to the railroad.

Six-year-old Sandra Laverne Gordon of Rte. 2, Macon, died after a car struck her as she darted across a highway near her home Sunday.

In another Sunday accident, three-year-old Melvin Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lee Evans of Chattanooga, Tenn., died after being struck by a car in the Olivia Baptist Church yard, three miles south of Dalton.

State patrolmen investigating the accident said the child apparently ran in front of a car being driven by Marshall Watters, son of the Rev. J. B. Watters, pastor of the church, as he was driving across the church yard.

2 WOMEN KILLED

Two Montgomery, Ala., women were killed near Villa Rica Saturday night when their car skidded into a concrete bridge. Patrolmen identified them as Mrs. Lillian J. Rosa, 46, and Mrs. Amy Mathis, 45.

Another Atlantan, 48-year-old Harry Crawford Bowman, died when his car turned over near Covington Friday night.

French Drive Links Troops, Takes Road

By LARRY ALLEN

WITH FRENCH UNION FORCES, Tien Yen, Viet Nam, July 19—(AP)—French Union troops in a new offensive action stabbed deep into the backyard of the Communist-led Vietminh today. They seized control of a 60-mile stretch of highway and linked up with paratroopers on their way out of the wrecked enemy war base of Lanson.

Thousands of infantrymen, landed by naval units at Tien Yen and spearheaded by paratroopers dropped in key towns and villages, drove northwestward over National Highway No. 4 meeting only light, scattered Vietminh resistance.

The Vietminh, who long have been reported to have strong forces in Northwestern Indochina around Tien Yen, made virtually no attempt to halt French seizure of the highway which lies just south of the border of China's Kwangsi province.

The French wiped out a score of bridges between Tien Yen and Langson, smashed enemy telephone lines, and seized a munitions depot. The seizure of this long stretch of highway cut off the Vietminh from getting supplies from Langson, which French paratroopers knocked out in a daring raid Friday.

Night Oil May Burn In Senate

By CLAYTON KNOWLES
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 19 — The threat of a legislative log jam that might jeopardize the scheduled July 31 adjournment of Congress gave rise to the possibility today that the Senate might be kept at work morning, afternoon and evening in order to clear its docket.

With the big getaway day just two weeks off, the Senate still has to act on the defense and mutual security appropriation bills, on the refugee bill and on perhaps a half dozen other bills on which there are commitments, either to the White House or to influential members of the Congress itself.

THROUGH MIDNIGHT

Since all tax measures as well as the big departmental spending bills must originate in the House of Representatives, the Senate usually lags as adjournment nears. Senate rules permitting extended debate merely intensify the problem.

Senator Knowland of California, the acting Republican leader, took note of the situation today when he said the Senate "may have to start sessions at 9 a. m. and run through to midnight." The Senate usually convenes at noon and, except in the closing days of the session, rarely works beyond the early evening.

The Senate's work schedule could be determined by the outcome of tomorrow morning's conference between President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders. The administration is expected to give the final word on what legislation must come to a vote at this session and what can be laid over until next January.

DEBT LIMIT

Guidance, for example, is being sought on whether the administration wants the national debt limit raised at this session. The present statutory limit is $275,000,000,000. A deficit in excess of $9,000,000,000 for fiscal year 1953, which ended June 30,

Clayton Baby Strangled in High Chair

A 20-month-old College Park child died of strangulation Sunday after he apparently slid down in his high chair and caught his neck in a safetystrap designed to hold him in the chair.

Police identified the child as Jimmy Eugene Hogue, son of Mr. and Mrs. EugeneFranklin Hogue, 1632 Riverdale Rd., Clayton County.

Jimmy Eugene Hogue

The child's mother told College Park Police Sgt. T. W. Hardy and Officer J. L. Henry that she was sweeping in the living room and left Jimmy alone in the high chair in the kitchen. When she returned 15 minutes later she found him hanging from the high chair strap, she said. The child's father was away from the house on an errand.

Hardy applied artificial respiration until a fire department resuscitator arrived. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady Hospital.

The Fulton County coroner is expected to hold an inquest Monday. Funeral plans will be announced by A. C. Hemperley & Sons.

Plane Crash Kills Vet, Injures Bride

MISAWAKA, Ind., July 19 — (INS)—A 25-year-old World War II veteran was killed and his bride of two weeks critically injured today when their two-seater plane crashed into a corn field north of Mishawaka, Ind.

Killed in the crash was Darl K. West, of Mishawaka, who was at the controls of the light plane. His wife, Evelyn, 18, is not expected to live. The Wests were married July 4 and had just returned from their honeymoon.

Eyewitnesses said the plane crashed after taking off from Mishawaka's Sportsman's Air Field and gaining an altitude of about 2,000 feet. It plowed into a tree after hitting the ground.

SLICKERS OUTSLICKED

Deputy Leads Captors Into Searchers' Camp

NEVADA CITY, Calif., July 19—(AP)—A mountain-wise deputy sheriff today steered his three city-raised abductors to the headquarters of a 200-man posse, where they meekly surrendered.

Deputy Elmer Oates was kidnaped at gunpoint yesterday and held hostage by three teen-agers, including an 18-year-old girl.

Oates said that once during his night-long ordeal in the Neva County wilderness he disarmed his abductors, only to have them snatch back the guns.

Oates guided the teen-agers to White Cloud Camp on State Highway 20 when they ordered him to take them to the nearest place where they could steal a car in which to flee the area.

Oates said he chose White Cloud, a tourist roadside camp in the Tahoe National Forest, because he "figured it would be the most likely marshaling spot for a search party."

The deputy's calculations were correct. Sheriff Wayne Brown had some 30 men at the camp and the weary kidnapers walked into a semicircle of armed and concealed searchers.

The teen-agers were taken to the sheriff's office for questioning.

Oates, a pleasant, round-faced 38-year-old father of two children and one of the city's most-loved citizens, was the object of a continuous search by a 200-man posse, bloodhounds and airplanes.

He said today that after he had disarmed his captors yesterday afternoon, he stood in the open and signaled frantically to the planes overhead, but apparently could not attract their attention.

This quiet mountain city was wild with joy today after Oates' safe return and planned to make Aug. 1, the first day of their hydraulic centennial celebration, Elmer Oates Day.

621 Die, 5,000 Missing As Japan Floods Rise

TOKYO, Monday, July 20—(AP)—More than 600 Japanese have been killed and some 5,000 are missing or injured in the greatest flood to hit Japan in modern times, it was announced today.

National police headquarters in Tokyo said that 621 persons were known dead as of 10 p. m. Sunday, along with 4,640 missing and 314 injured. It was feared that the death toll would rise as disrupted communications are restored.

Entire villages, towns and wide areas of farmland in the heart of Japan were under a sea of muddy water as the result of three days of heavy rain. Marooned inhabitants hopefully awaited rescue from high ground, trees or rooftops.

Torrential rains lashed Central Japan and Kyushu Island for the third straight day, and the swirling flood waters mounted.

Mt. Aso, volcanic crater in Kyushu, blew up tonight with an explosion that shot rocks and smoke half a mile into the sky. The Kumamoto city observator said the flood may have caused the explosion. No one was injured.

Wakayama bore the brunt of the downpour which set off the floods on two of its main rivers, the Hidaka and Arita.

A police report said at least 500 persons perished in Mibomachi, a town of 16,000 at the mouth of the Hidaka. The flood waters crushed levees and swirled over the town.

The disaster was on a greater scale than the Kyushu floods three weeks ago that claimed 1,166 persons dead and missing.

Heat, Humidity Listed for Encore

North Georgians Monday can expect rather hot, humid weather conditions with a "chance" of an afternoon thundershower, the Atlanta weatherman said.

More of the same fare is expected Tuesday with the skies remaining partly cloudy both days, he said.

In Atlanta temperature extremes are expected to range from 70 to 88 degrees Monday, and from 70 to 90 degrees Tuesday. Sunday's readings were 70 and 86.

The weather bureau reported .06 inch rainfall in Atlanta Sunday.

Purge of East Germany Claims 2 More Victims

Complete Reorganization Expected; Kremlin Reverses Mild Policy

By DON DOANE

BERLIN, July 19—(AP)—Moscow's purge of East German communism claimed two new victims today.

A Kremlin - directed reorganization of the entire East German government was reported under way as the Russians used tanks and terror against the menace of a new revolt.

Adalbert Hengst, a secretary of East Germany's ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party was expelled for "supporting the provocateurs" of the June 17 uprising, Neues Dutschland, announced.

Bernd Weinberger, minister for construction of transport vehicles and machines, was "sharply censured" at the same meeting of the party Politburo which ousted Hengst, the paper said. He appeared on his way out of office.

BIGGER SHAKEUP FORECAST

An even bigger purge—the government shakeup which has been expected since the June riots—was forecast for next week.

The Politburo was reliably reported scheduled to meet tomorrow or next day to receive its orders from Moscow for the government reshuffle. Either Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov or his deputy and political adviser, Pavel Yudin, will attend the meeting to deliver the Kremlin's orders in person, informed West Berlin sources said.

Interior Minister Willi Stroph was regarded as almost certain to be among those getting the political ax.

Even President Wilhelm Pieck may be replaced, according to the West Berlin newspaper Telegraf. It said Gen. Vincenz Mueller, chief of staff of the East German armed forces, has been suggested by Cabinet members as successor to aged and ailing Pieck, who has been under medical treatment in Russia since April.

SENT TO ROSTOCK

The charges against Hengst and Weinberger disclosed that the June rebellion reached high into the upper brackets of the party hierarchy. Hengst and Weinberger were sent to help put down the riots in Rostock, big Baltic port where the Communists had not previously admitted any trouble.

But instead of quelling the rioters, Hengst was accused by the Politburo of "surrendering to and concretely supporting the provocateurs." Weinberger was charged with "surrendering to the hostile riot inciters." No details were given.

Weinberger was the second cabinet minister to fall into disgrace since the uprising. Justice Minister Max Fechner was arrested last week as an "enemy of the republic" and is still a prisoner.

Beams, Mortar Tumble On 10 Hotel Workmen

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., July 19—(AP)—A second-floor section of a plush, oceanfront hotel under construction collapsed here today, sending at least 10 workmen to the hospital.

The accident occurred as workers were pouring concrete for the lobby ceiling of the multi-million dollar building, located at the foot of the world-famed Lincoln Road.

Police Sgt. Jesse Webb said approximately 50 workmen were helping on the section when a corner of the structure "started to collapse." He said the structure shook wildly, then crumpled in the middle, twisting the beams.

Most of the men scampered to safety but an undetermined number fell or were forced to jump amid the crashing building materials.

"The beams were almost bent double," said Webb.

Foreman Joe Hollingsworth said he jumped for the edge of a beam and hung to it until he could regain his balance. He was not injured.

A spokesman for Mt. Sinai Hospital said 10 of the workmen were treated for injuries. Four later were dismissed. Four others were awaiting X-rays, and two were in serious enough condition to require hospitalization.

There was no immediate explanation for the accident. Police said the builders had permission from Assistant City Manager Morris Lipp to work on Sunday in order to pour the concrete.

3 Democrats Quit on Phony Issue, 'Embarrassed,' McCarthy Claims

By JAY WALZ
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 19—Senator McCarthy, (Rep., Wis.), said today the three Democrats who walked out on his permanent subcommittee on investigations had raised a "phony issue" over his right, as chairman, to employ whom he pleased as staff members.

He said the Democrats really had left because they found it politically "embarrassing" to be in his group.

Interviewed on the National Broadcasting Company's television program "Meet the Press," McCarthy held that it always had been the right of the chairman of a congressional committee to "hire and fire" staff personnel. That had been true "when the Democrats were in control," he said.

'JUST EMBARRASSED'

The Democrats were embarrassed, he said, because the subcommittee was "exposing graft and corruption" of the recent Democratic administration of Harry S. Truman. He said that one of the three resigned Democratic committee members had expressed it to him in this way:

"The better job the committee does the more abuse we will have to take," the senator added.

Sens. John L. McLellan of Arkansas, Stuart Symington of Missouri and Henry M. Jackson of Washington—the Democratic minority members of the subcommittee—quit the group Thursday as an aftermath of the controversy over J. B. Matthews, whom McCarthy employed as staff director against the Republican majority's giving McCarthy power to employ and dismiss staff members at will.

WANTS THEM BACK

McCarthy reminded his television audience that McLellan was due to run for re-election next year, and that Symington "has been mentioned" for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956.

The Wisconsin Republican said he would like to have the Democrats back as his subcommittee should have minority representation, but that he would make no move to force them to return if they felt that as senators "they wanted to draw their pay and not do their work."

All three Democrats wrote letters to McCarthy yesterday reiterating their positions and their decisions not to resume their subcommittee places.

McCarthy said tonight that what the Democrats had done reminded him of what "small, irresponsible boys have been doing since the beginning of time."

"But it has never happened in Congress before," he added.

McCarthy said he "left it to the Democrats" to say whether Matthews should have the opportunity to come before the subcommittee to prove his allegations of Communist infiltration of the Protestant clergy. They replied, the senator said, that Matthews should take his charges before the House un-American activities committee. This committee is meeting in closed session tomorrow morning to decide whether to take up Matthews' charges.

The charge appeared in a magazine article written by Matthews shortly after his subcommittee appointment, and the resulting public furor resulted in the staff director's resignation.

MOST LOYAL

McCarthy said that in the article under attack Matthews had written that the vast majority of clergymen were loyal Americans who were embarrassed by the "less than two per cent that had been duped into serving the Communist cause."

The senator emphasized that he had neither "fired" Matthews, nor accepted his resignation.

"He quit when the opposition raised the phony religious issue where there was no religious issue," the senator declared.

By JOHN BOOTH

WASHINGTON, July 19—(INS—A top State department expert on Russian affairs said today the purge of Lavrenti P. Beria does not end the struggle for power in the Kremlin and that the result may be a further softening of Soviet foreign policy.

Francis B. Stevens, special assistant in the department's office of Eastern European affairs, said the ouster of the dread master of the Soviet secret police "is interpreted as being the first step in the disagreement among the successors to Stalin."

Stevens, in a CBS radio interview, apparently was expressing his personal views but his opinions are known to reflect the general line of thinking in the department.

He declared: "It is reasonable to assume that removal of Beria does not settle the question of a successor to Stalin. I believe the struggle for power extends beyond the three (Beria, Premier Georgi Malenkov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov) who were generally considered to have taken over. Actually, the struggle for power is not over, and may be expected to continue for some time to come."

Stevens served as second secretary in the U. S. embassy at Moscow from 1942 to 1945, when he returned to Washington for various assignments in the office of Eastern European affairs. He has also served as political adviser to the U. S. High Commissioner in Germany.

He speculated that:

1. The struggle for power since Premier Josef Stalin's death has prevented the Soviet Union "from acting in a united and determined way in its foreign policy."

2. Recent disturbances in East Germany, Czechoslovakia and other satellies were a natural result of Stalin's death and the determination of these peoples to regain their independence.

3. Because of internal difficulties, which may grow worse, the Soviet government will be obliged to concentrate on these problems and may therefore adopt a "relatively more conciliatory foreign policy."

Iran Parliament Speaker Sees No More Sessions

TEHRAN, Iran, July 19 (AP)—Dr. Abdullah Mozami, speaker of Iran's paralyzed Parliament, said today "there is no hope for any more sessions of the Majlis."

Mozami made the statement after calling an open session, for which only 19 diehard opponents of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh turned up. Other deputies—Mossadegh's National Movement faction and its supporting splinter groups—stood on their resignations and failed to appear.

By nightfall the number of resigning deputies reached 56, leaving but 23.

Naval Store Parley Set Tomorrow

By ANNE GOWEN

Southeastern gum and turpentine dealers will meet with representatives of the U. S. Agriculture department here Tuesday to map out a naval stores conservation program for 1954.

Judge Harley Langdale Sr. of Valdosta, president of the American Turpentine Farmers Association, will head the delegation of private businessmen.

The meeting will begin at Peachtree-Seventh Bldg. at 9:30 a. m. Charles A. Connaughton, chief of the U. S. Forest Service regional office, will lead the discussion.

This industry-government meeting is the traditional way of formulating each year's conservation program. The forest service has administered the program, which covers 60 million acres in the Southern coastal plain states, for the past 18 years.

Two Rejoin Staff

Two former employees recently rejoined the staff of the U. S. Treasury's regional disbursement office here, while another employee resigned and two more were promoted.

Mrs. Florence T. Gordy, clerk-typist, and Mrs. Jessie L. Green, key punch operator, were reappointed to the old jobs they held before they were transferred—Mrs. Gordy to the Veterans Administration district office and Mrs. Green to the Federal Reserve Bank.

Mrs. Glennis C. Summerall was promoted to the position of chief of the mail and distribution section which was made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Virginia D. Wyatt. Mrs. Christine B. New was promoted to Mrs. Summerall's former position as assistant chief of the section.

New Phone Numbers

Two of the most frequently telephoned government agencies in Atlanta recently have had their phone numbers changed.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue district office, formerly reached at MA 3517, has been changed to WA 4121. The Social Securty field office, formerly at WA 1654, has been changed to EL 3311.

Lowe Succeeds Taylor

He will be succeeded temporarily by W. P. Lowe, chief of the appraisal section of the same division.

Taylor, a native of Ft. Valley, has been in federal service since 1932. He has been employed by the Farm Credit Administration, and the Montgomery and Atlanta VA offices.

Has your engine lost its new car pep? Re-power with...

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

TCP*, a Shell discovered additive now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, actually re-powers your engine by stopping short circuiting of spark plugs and controlling pre-ignition. Gives up to 15% more power... increases spark plug life up to 150%... gives extra mileage, too

The reason the majority of engines lose their new car power—often within three or four thousand miles—is now known.

Today's driving—often at low speeds in traffic and around town—increases the amount of engine deposits on spark plugs and in combustion chambers. These engine deposits do two kinds of harm. First, they short-circuit spark plugs—causing misfiring. Second, because they get red hot in the combustion chambers, they often cause the fuel-air mixture to ignite prematurely—this is called pre-ignition. The combined effect of short-circuited spark plugs plus pre-ignition is lost power and wasted gasoline. This loss of power is especially noticeable when accelerating, hill climbing, or cruising on the open highway.

But now there's a way to get rid of this power and fuel waste—quickly!

It's TCP additive, discovered by Shell Research. Now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, it actually stops the short-circuiting effects of the deposits on the spark plugs. And, because it also keeps engine deposits in the combustion chamber from getting too hot—"fire proofs" them—TCP additive stops the pre-ignition caused by engine deposits.

And, the result for the average motorist is a net gain of up to 15% more power, up to 150% longer spark plug life as well as increased gasoline mileage!

Not since the introduction of tetraethyl lead in 1922 has there been such an important development in gasoline.

All engines are helped!

Because these engine deposits accumulate in all engines—both old and new—you need Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP additive to keep your engine delivering the full power built into it by the manufacturer. Even if your car has gone 30,000 miles or more, your engine can get back much of its original power if you use Shell Premium with TCP additive.

Shell Premium with TCP quick to act

So rapidly does Shell Premium increase your power you'll feel your engine's had a tune-up before you've finished the second tankful. Of course, these engine deposits are constantly accumulating, and continued use of Shell Premium with TCP additive is essential to retain its benefits.

Available only at your Shell Dealer's

TCP is Shell's trademark for the remarkable additive now available in Shell Premium Gasoline. Originally developed by Shell Research for aviation fuels, until now it has been largely restricted to military aircraft.

Now at all Shell Dealer Stations.

Education Needs More Local Help

Rep. Walter Harrison of Millen, member of the legislative committee studying Georgia schools, has voiced an opinion that has been heard increasingly even from educational sources. He says local school boards and local communities must assume more of the educational load.

The state, which now bears about 90 per cent of the cost of public education, is spending about as much as the traffic will bear under present tax laws and economic circumstances.

There are, of course, communities already doing for schools everything their economic resources will permit. But many others are falling down on the job. And even though the state is now out of the ad valorem field, counties are slow to accept their share of school support.

We think, too, that government at all levels in Georgia tends to look upon government services as a separate instead of an over-all problem.

We thus find many county commissioners and boards of education scrambling for the available revenue instead of all hands getting together to work out an over-all program of progress that puts first things first. This scramble extends from county funds to state appropriations. The result is a disjointed program that seldom meets the need in any category, but which keeps the people confused and the services fighting each other.

Local authorities tend to pass their problems on to the state instead of getting together with the state to work out an over-all program with definite goals.

There are signs that a joint approach to local and state problems, including all groups, is being considered by citizens as a more intelligent solution. Educators like Supt. Jim Cherry of DeKalb and others have pushed the idea and their county governments have adopted it with profit. There's no reason it would not work on a county-by-county as well as state level.

We agree with Mr. Cherry that democracy "is best safeguarded by government units responsible at close range to the people. Good government is best sustained where people feel a direct responsibility."

With the approach from county and community levels, we believe a program looking to progress in all fields and in which local communities accept their share of the responsibility can be achieved. Such an approach makes more sense than the present mad scramble for funds regardless of relative need.

Let's Open Our Eyes To Stakes in Indochina

Writing from Indochina, New York Times and Constitution writer James Reston reaffirms what many others have been saying during the past few months. The danger of Communist capture of that Southeast Asian country is very real.

For nearly eight years, the French have been fighting a losing war in Indochina. The Communists have been able to take advantage of a rising tide of nationalism to gain more and more converts as the years drag on. The Indochinese want independence from colonial rule more than anything else.

Incredibly ignorant, the natives are promised independence and plenty by the Communists. While pledging to free the natives from colonial rule, they also promise to free them from the feudal system of tribal lords that the French have used to maintain their rule. Knowing little of the rules of governing themselves, the natives cannot realize they are exchanging what they consider tyranny for the terror of totalitarian police rule.

The situation is speeding to a climax. In much the same way they overran China, the Communists are moving in Indochina. We find ourselves forced to uphold the French when the only alternative to certain loss of the Indochinese to communism is a counterrevolution on the American pattern that recognizes the national aspirations of the native peoples.

There's one thing for sure. Loss of Indochina to communism foreshadows the eventual loss of all Asia and with it the vast stores of raw materials that make our standard of living possible.

They Think Linder Will Remain Adamant

There are metropolitan areas that don't stop at state lines. Their residential, often their business, areas lap the boundaries. And so do their problems.

Because of conflicting laws and contrary opinions, milk distribution has been a complex problem in the area. Tennessee agriculture officials and a committee of Georgia producers and distributors have met to work out a plan for reciprocal inspection.

But the persons working toward that end are pessimistic about the chances for success. They figure they are probably up against a brick wall.

The name is Linder. They figure it is too much to hope that the Georgia agriculture commissioner will accept any plan that smacks of reciprocity and logic.

Everybody Loses When Traffic Jams

When traffic fails to move, everybody loses. So reveals a study by the National Automobile Dealers Association.

The housewife pays more for groceries because the merchant must pay more for their delivery to him. Workers take longer to get to their jobs, and time means money. Industry's profits dwindle as distribution costs rise.

Traffic jams are at everybody's expense, they are everybody's business. We'll get them straightened out when the public wakes up to that fact and demands a quicker solution.

TVA's Contributions Are More Than Power

One of the purposes behind establishment of TVA was reforestation. This need was directly tied in with other aims of soil conservation and flood control. Has it been successful?

An editorial in the Knoxville Journal urging that Congress save this resources development program seems to sum up the problem and the progress toward its solution. The Journal says:

> "The record of this agency speaks for itself. In 1933, there were, by actual count, 1,500,000 acres of land in the Tennessee Valley in need of reforestation. As of that year, only 1,200 acres had been reforested. Since then, more than 250,000,000 seedlings from TVA nurseries have been planted on 211,710 acres.
> "An outspoken example of this planting process is the Bowaters Southern Paper Corp., whose plant is under construction at Calhoun, Tenn. Bowaters was the largest individual tree planter last year, and when its plant is completed there will be a ready cash market for East Tennessee forest farmers of $30,000,000 per year."

The Bowaters plant is the type of industrial development that is now helping to rebuild an entire section of the nation. Enemies of TVA say it is at the expense of other sections. Close examination reveals how false is such thinking.

Production of power is only one facet of TVA's vast contributions. Its rehabilitation of a whole region has added billions to the sum total of the national wealth.

McCarthy, Lehman And Frank Abuse

Senator McCarthy took the floor of the Senate to accuse Senator Lehman of abusing the Senate's free mail privileges by sending out thousands of pamphlets entitled "Creeping McCarthyism" under a congressional frank. McCarthy called it "a rather gross abuse."

We have no firsthand information on the New York senator's activities, but we do have some firsthand information on McCarthy's abuse of the free mail privilege. Each week we receive four letters from McCarthy. They are supposed to be questions frequently asked the senator together with his answers. He evidently expects them to be published in this newspaper but they invariably wind up in our already overcrowded wastebasket.

The Wisconsin senator told the Senate he was trying to show that if members of Congress were "a bit more careful about abusing the privilege of the frank, then we wouldn't have this deficit in the Post Office department."

We agree with the senator on that score and suggest that he start in his own office. We can see no legitimate service to the nation in sending us even one, much less four, of his weekly columns of questions and answers. Think of that post office deficit, senator, and have pity on our poor wastebasket at the same time!

David Lawrence

Protestant Clergy Hurt by Publicity

WASHINGTON—The anti-McCarthy strategists here can now survey the wreckage they have wrought in the last 10 days. Never has there been as much harm done in so little time.

Foremost is the damage done to the vast majority of protestant clergymen in America—not by Senator McCarthy nor by his staff investigator, J. B. Matthews—but by those who gave nationwide publicity to a charge against the protestant clergy as a whole which neither McCarthy nor Matthews had ever made.

Millions of readers a few days ago read for the first time news dispatches giving the impression that the whole protestant clergy was under suspicion. This never would have been the case if three Democratic senators, goaded by newspapermen here, had not seen fit to dignify and make a dispute over an article that could readily have been ignored.

Within the last few years in the same magazine, but under different ownership, an article appeared which questioned the financial integrity of President Truman with a lot of alleged facts concerning his business operations before he took office. This correspondent's assertions upholding Mr. Truman's personal integrity were vehemently attacked. But none of the Republican senators, to their credit, took up the controversy over the charges or made headline news out of those baseless allegations which every press association would then have had to carry. There was no "Americans for Republican Action" in existence to insist on increasing the circulation of the charges against the character of a man in public office.

Today the "Americans for Democratic Action" are circulating a pamphlet raising questions about the personal honesty of the Wisconsin senator in income-tax matters. The fact that three opposing senators signed the document of innuendo and character assassination which now has been reprinted by the "Americans for Democratic Action"—a supposedly "liberal" organization—is no alibi for spreading slander. The original report is a compilation of questions raised in typical smear fashion but giving no answers in conclusion and no evidence on which impartial conclusions could be based. Anybody, of course, who stops to think about it would realize that if there had been the slightest legal basis for seeking an indictment by a grand jury against Senator McCarthy for alleged income-tax irregularities, the Truman administration would have done it with great eagerness, zeal and dispatch.

What many of the anti-McCarthyites in Washington don't realize—because they don't know American politics—is that politically they are making Senator McCarthy's faction stronger rather than weaker by reason of the personal attacks on him which have nothing to do with the main issue—anticommunism.

Thomas L. Stokes

Back Room Boys Lay Their Plans

WASHINGTON—It is said often these days, and accurately, that the new Republican Congress has done very little in its first session. Criticism is varied. One complaint, voiced by all sorts from individuals to big business, is about failure to cut taxes. Another series of complaints has to do with failure to do anything whatever along the social welfare line—expansion of social security, housing, health, education. That comes from rank and file and organized labor.

But it is misleading to stop there.

The real truth is that a great deal has been done, or at least started, both by the new administration and its Congress about which you have been told very little—and purposely so, because it is not to your best interest. This is the real story. It is the plot cooked up by the big-boys-in-the-back-room while the Salvation Army is beating the drum out front, so to speak.

Part of the story, which happened behind doors closed to you, is the way all sorts of social welfare functions have been reduced in scope, and expansion programs for low-cost public power, including REA, crippled—by just cutting off appropriations for them, an old trick, easily hidden.

You caught a fleeting glimpse of another part of the plot a few days ago—fleeting because it took the house only part of an afternoon to slip through the Miller-Dondero Bill handing over Niagara Falls power development to five big utility companies for their profit and the consumer's loss. They put that trick over fast—and all while Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was here watching, helplessly.

He wasn't able to stop that in his visit here. But now he and leaders of his administration have signed a protest against this giveaway, and dispatched it here to the Senate public works committee, which has the House bill before it.

Niagara is strategically important. But the real big prize now being sought by the private utilities is Hell's Canyon out along the Idaho-Oregon boundary, which the previous administration proposed to develop by a high dam across the Snake River that would utilize the potentials of this river to the fullest, including power so badly needed in Oregon and Washington.

If the Idaho Power Company, a Maine corporation, can get its hands on this and spoil the full utilization of the river by the series of small dams it proposes, then the private utilities are back in the saddle again, and our dream of developing our resources for the people is gone, and the country handed over to the power trust. That's what Hell Canyon means—and to you and you and you, wherever you live.

Many Segments of National Economy Have Known Benefits From the REA

Dudley—On June 12 you had an article dealing with the present national administration in general and with REA in particular.

I think it was indeed timely and appropriate. Even most critics of the REA program admit some benefits to rural America, but stop at that. They fail to realize this program has benefited anyone else. For every dollar invested in electric distribution lines over this country there have been more than two and a half times that amount spent by the rural people in purchases of electric wiring materials, electric motors and other electric appliances and equipment.

These benefits have accrued to practically every segment of American economy: Miners of iron ore, aluminum, copper, the big steel mills and various processing plants, all transportation facilities, the timber interests, the creosoting plants, truck dealers, filling station operators, the big jobbing houses, the retail stores and their salesmen.

It so often happens that some critics of this program are people who have borrowed from RFC, FHA and other government-lending agencies, and the paradox is that there is nothing socialistic about so-called private industry securing government assistance; but when it comes to the farmers borrowing from the same source, then they begin to cry "creeping socialism."

'Tis a Pore Sole,' Indeed Who Slays Favorite Songster

East Point—I notice in Harold Martin's collom that he has A great intrest in birds. Maybe the following will interest him.

Since early April we have had in our neighborhood on Hillcrest Dr, in East Point A very wanderful mawking bird. He sings for A short time in the late afternoon and then disappears until twelve oclock midnite. This is when he would really give out. I would listen to him for A long time each night after retiring. His song would southe my jangled nerves and put me in A peaceful sleep. This bird I became Very fond of.

Tuesday afternoon I decided to take my wife and son for A ride. As we pulled away from our driveway I saw one of my neighbors who lives in the 500 block across the street with A 22 rifle. Being A curious man I slowed down to see what he was ofter. To my great surprise I saw him aim the rifle and fire. And the next moment our beloved songster fell to the ground dead. At that particular moment I was so mad that I stopped and ment to give this mauderader A sound thrashing. But my wife pleaded for me to drive on and be good. Of course I did. We havent heard our songster any more.

This man may have gotten great satisfaction out of his murderous deed, but to me he is A poor sole indeed. He will always be A first class JACKASS in my book.

Outdoor School Director Answers Charles Allen's Plea

Atlanta—In answer to the prize offered by the Rev. Charles Allen for solution to problem of peaceful accompaniment of offsprings on auto trips:

First: He must be conscious that he can't make them behave under any condition. He can only enlist their co-operation.

Second: One fundamental rule must be kept in mind, i. e., any behavior that he wishes to be repeated must be accompanied by a feeling of satisfaction. Same is true of behavior not wished to be repeated.

Third: Offspring must know what to expect. Must trust driver to do what has been planned.

Fourth: The necessary requirements for this are time, patience and affection.

Suggestions are result of having transported children up and down that same route to North Carolina camps for many years. A road map in hands of offsprings with penciled route, a few lollipops, canteen of water and a smile will be about the main requirements for carrying out of above. This is for children of seven years and up. An entirely different program has to be mapped out for younger ones.

Director, Out-of-Doors School.

Special Fund Possible Way To Relieve Disaster Areas

Athens—I read that the Secretary of Agriculture is in favor of granting loans to people of the Southwest drought area. A good idea, but what I would like to know is just what would have to happen to any part of the United States to put that part on an equal footing with some drought-stricken foreign country so that our own people might get help without having to borrow and pay interest?

The only sensible thing to do is for Congress or the states to levy a special tax or set aside a special fund to rehabilitate people of disaster areas. The Mormon Church has such a fund and apparently has been very successful in times of disaster in bringing relief to people of that faith.

Economists Wary With Predictions About Immediate Business Outlook

WASHINGTON—After the beating they took in making a lot of erroneous calculations on the business outlook at the end of World War II, many leading economists are now adopting a cautious attitude in appraising the current trend of events.

Take the case of Arthur Burns, top economic adviser to President Eisenhower. Having learned a lesson from the past, he is not making any hasty predictions about things immediately ahead.

Whether we are entering a new period of deflation or are to have more of the inflation of the past 10 years is a question that has been receiving widespread public discussion of late. In a recent appearance before a closed session of the House appropriations committee, efforts were made to draw Burns out on the subject. The printed transcript, made public the other day, is interesting if not revealing.

Rep. Albert Thomas of Texas wanted to know what the economist thought of recent change in interest rates by the Federal Reserve and the Treasury. "How is it going to affect business," he asked; "also agriculture, the housing problem and employment?"

"Congressman," Burns replied, "those are very important questions that I am now trying to study."

Using a more direct approach, Thomas then asked: "What is the outlook now? How do the increase in interest rates and the tight money policy look to you?"

(He was referring to action of the Treasury in boosting to 3¼ per cent the rate on government long-term bonds as a part of the administration's hard-money policy, a move that has had general repercussions in the money market.)

"I am studying that at the present time," Burns said, "and I hesitate to discuss the matter until my understanding is clear."

The Texas member pressed harder: "Are we in an inflationary period? Or have we leveled off and are now entering a period of deflation?"

"If you look at the behavior of prices, and at that alone," Burns said, "you easily might come out with the conclusion we have entered a deflationary period. If on the other hand, you look to the industrial sphere of the economy and find, as you do, production going up, employment rising, unemployment shrinking, the question is bound to come up whether the decline in prices that has been taking place can well continue, and whether, in view of the continued growth of output and employment and the vital disappearance of unemployment, new and upward price pressures will not develop in our economy."

Not satisfied with the answer, Thomas remarked that the economists are not unlike the lawyers who, he said, will give the right answer if you let them put enough "if and ands" in it.

Burns probably remembers too well the burning many members of his profession got in predicting a depression after the close of the late war, when we were supposed to have 8,000,000 men out of employment the first year of peace. Instead, we went on to new peaks of national prosperity.

The Little Things Wear You Down

I read about a tree which successfully stood against great storms but was felled by some little bugs which got into it. There are people who successfully handle major problems but let little things keep them upset. Below I am listing some of the "petty" irritations I am working on.

The person who meets you on the street or calls you on the phone and begins with "Do you know who I am?" It may be some person I met once along with a hundred other people. In Alabama the other day it was a girl I was in high school with. It is amazing how much difference 25 years and four children can make.

When eating in a public place, it is most annoying for some friend to stop at your table and start a long conversation. You invite him to sit down, but he is just going to say a "word." Politeness requires that you stand with him and when he finally leaves, your coffee is cold and your digestive nerves are in no mood for food.

Driving in the city, I make it a practice to stop at all red lights and not to start again until the light turns green. Frequently some eager-beaver is in the car behind and the moment a glimmer of yellow shows, he starts honking his horn. I often have the urge to back up and bump him real hard, but so far have not done so.

And these people who feel it their duty to lecture me about "how hard I work." The good Lord gave each of us 24 hours a day. I try to sleep eight of those hours and I eat three meals a day. I plan as carefully as I can the rest of my time and do the things I either want to do or feel I ought to do. Many things I do not have time for, but I feel each person ought to know best what he can do.

I love babies but a baby in church is out of place. No baby enjoys hearing a sermon and they are frank enough to let everyone present know of their discomfort. It is not fair to let one baby or small child disturb the worship of several hundred people. Maybe some day I will be able not to notice this disturbance, but I have a long way to go yet.

Not long ago I was talking with Norman Vincent Peale. I said, "Doctor, I have a problem." Anxiously he asked, "What is it?" I told him it gets on my nerves for so many people to tell me they had rather hear my wife speak than me. He said, "You know, I have that same problem. If you find the answer, let me know."

I have made a lot of speeches at banquets and, next to the annoyance of a toastmaster who takes up most of the time, are the "dish-washers" who talk so loud in the kitchen that the people cannot hear what the speaker is saying. Why can't they wait until after the program is over to clear the tables and wash the dishes?

I have some others, but these are the ones I am working hardest on just now.

Cleveland Vetoed Free Seed Bill

Dry weather is nothing new for Texas. And one may rest assured that when the Lone Star State has a drought, it is a big one. Why, once around Amarillo it was so dry folks had to pin stamps to envelopes and you could track a school of fish swimming upstream by the cloud of dust they stirred up. But federal disaster relief for arid areas is fairly new. At least Grover Cleveland was "agin" it. A Yankee historian named Joseph Barksdale cited the passage. I turned to page 557, Vol. VIII, "Messages and Papers of the Presidents, and there it was:

EXECUTIVE MANSION
February 16, 1887.

To the House of Representatives:

"I return without approval House Bill No. 10203, entitled 'An act to enable the Commissioner of Acriculture to make a special distribution of seeds in the drought-stricken counties of Texas, and making an appropriation therefor: . . ."

The first Democrat President after the Civil War went on to say he had no doubt a need for relief existed and that free federal seed would help. But he said he found nothing in the Constitution that would warrant expenditure of public funds for the purpose.

President Cleveland said further and specifically: "I do not believe that the power and duty of the General Government ought to be extended to the relief of individual suffering which is in no manner properly related to the public service or benefit. A prevalent tendency to disregard the limited mission of this power and duty should, I think, be steadfastly resisted, to the end that the lesson should be constantly enforced that though the people support the Government, the Government should not support the people."

But to show he was not flint-hearted, Grover C. went on to suggest that when the emergency became fully known, neighbors of the drought-distressed Texans would pitch in to help out.

Then he made a practical suggestion. He said senators and House members had been sending out free seeds to their constituents to the total of $100,000 a year. He advised that if they would pool their seed and send it all to Texas it would help. He opined, in effect, that for at least a year the farmers in Illinois, Arkansas, Maine and Missouri could struggle along without free seeds from Congress, especially when they knew they were doing a good deed.

The New Deal must have given the spirit of the doughty Cleveland a bad time.

We've come to accept the idea that we are our brothers' keeper, through federal and state aid. The appropriation which Grover Cleveland vetoed was $10,000 for seed-starved Texas. The one Ike signed the other day was for $8,000,000.

LEAVES FORCE
Capt. Ernest Sikes

HurtsForce Capt. Sikes To Retire

Capt. Ernest L. Sikes, headline-crashing Atlanta policeman for more than a decade, has been retired on disability pension due to a wreck which occurred last Halloween night.

Sikes, assigned to traffic, was attempting to quell a disturbance at Peachtree and Pryor Streets, Northeast.

After a difficult operation, and lengthy medical care, physicians agreed that the tall, friendly officer would hardly be suited for the rigors of police work again.

Thus ended a whirlwind decade in which Sikes and Capt. E. O. Mullen—of the headline gathering Sikes and Mullen detective team—led the law enforcement field in everything from solving murders to playing cupid for a runaway girl and her swain who inadvertently fell into the hands of police.

APPREHEND MAN

The Sikes and Mullen legend began in 1942 when a crazed man barricaded in a house on Third Street, N. W., threatened to kill the first person who approached. While a dozen other officers maneuvered about the front of the house, Sikes and Mullen crashed through a side window and made the arrest.

Although the man was armed with a shotgun, pistol, several knives and an ice pick, the charge was made too swiftly for him to go into action.

Perhaps the best remembered Sikes-Mullen case was the rapid-fire solution of the abduction and rape of a 12-year-old girl on April 3, 1943. The girl started to a store near her home to purchase thread on Saturday night.

Witnesses told of observing a man seize her, place his hand over her mouth and force her through an alleyway. She wandered, half dazed into the Georgia Railroad yards paralleling DeKalb Avenue, early the following morning.

The girl told officers the assailant abandoned her in a vacant lot near Little Five Points after repeatedly assaulting her. Investigators termed the incident one of the most sordid sex crimes on record.

Within 24 hours Sikes and Mullen arrested William B. Stroup, a 40-year-old paroled convict. Stroup was given the death penalty in Fulton Superior Court on May 11, 1943, and on July 28, 1944, was electrocuted at Tattnall State Prison.

CLEANS UP CITY

During the war, Sikes and Mullen were the mainsprings of a police offensive to keep Atlanta clean of vice and prostitution. In recognition of this, Sikes was elevated to lieutenant in 1947 and captain the following year.

In all the sordid grimness of police work, however, Sikes and Mullen found time to be strictly human, too.

A 17-year-old runaway girl from New York was apprehended in Atlanta. She confided to Sikes and Mullen that she left home to be married to a 21-year-old man from San Antonio, Fla. They had the marriage license, she said, the rings and everything.

Sikes and Mullen made a hurried telephone call to the mother in New York and talked fast. Finally the mother agreed it would be all right to permit the young folks to go ahead provided the grandmother in Allendale, N. J., gave her consent. Sikes and Mullen called Allendale and talked their way into the grandmother's blessings.

The happy couple, who now reside in Florida, continue to send Christmas greetings to their "godfathers" in the Atlanta police department each year.

City Trims Accidents by Safety Drive

Driving tests and an on-the-job safety campaign initiated in city departments about a year ago are scaling down the accident rate, a report by the 14-man safety committee reveals.

W. E. Burnett, superintendent of the automotive division and head of the committee representing all phases of city activities, perorted last week that the incidence of all types of accidents has been cut 50 per cent in the year since the safety program began but "it is still too high."

MEETING

Burnett gave his report to a meeting of the committee, attended by the eight departmental chiefs. They laid further plans to stress safe handling of equipment and of traversing Atlanta's congested streets.

Every driver employed by the city has taken the state safety tests and experts are continuing to stress the need for caution in all activities in the automotive division.

In the waterworks division, Manager Paul Weir said "municipally owned utilities have about twice the accident rate of privately operated utilities."

Waterworks, he said, has set out to keep jobs "safe for the employee and safe for the public."

SAVING

Weir said, "We are training our employees in the safe handling of equipment. We emphasize job safety and insist that workers scrupulously observe all traffic laws."

Pointing out the economical conotation of job safety, Wier added that "absence of accidents means that the men do not lose time from work because of preventable mishaps. There is an economical saving."

Every service employee in the waterworks department has had basic first aid, and is preparing to take advanced courses, Wier said.

Columbus Police Hunt Check Passer

COLUMBUS, July 19—(AP)—Columbus police are seeking a natily dressed man who used what he claimed was an Atlanta Journal press card to identify himself as a reporter in order to cash two worthless checks July 11.

The checks, claimed by the man to be Journal payroll checks were made out in the name of Keith Normaw McBride. The man used the press card (No. 34) to identify himself as McBride, police were told.

Checks, each for $73.28, were cashed by the Fox Loan Co., where the man bought a $51 portable typewriter and the B. F. Goodrich Co., where he purchased a $33.95 portable radio. He received the balance in cash in both instances.

The two concerns reported the matter to police when payment on the checks were refused by an Atlanta bank.

In a page-one story last Wednesday, The Atlanta Constitution said it had learned that eight such checks had been cashed in South Georgia. The story quoted Louis Johnson, Journal-Constitution business manager, as saying no one by the name of Keith Norman McBride had ever been employed by either the Journal or Constitution. Johnson warned merchants against cashing the checks, colored a bright yellow.

Police here were told the man gave the DeSoto Hotel, Savannah, as his address. He was described to police as being between 35 and 40 years old, near six feet tall and having dark brown hair. He wore rimless eyeglasses.

WAC's Desire To Help Someone Heads DeKalb Family of 14 Toward New Life

By ANNE GOWEN

The 14 Milligan children and their parents are laying the foundations for a new house and a new life—all because of a WAC sergeant who wanted "to do some good for someone."

Things were tough around the three-room tar-paper dwelling in DeKalb County after D. R. Milligan, a carpenter, lost two fingers in an accident, and was unable to work for a while.

The 14 young Milligans, who range in age from two months to 19 years, often didn't have enough to eat.

Then M/Sgt. Undine Gillette, attached to the Third Army military personnel procurement staff, entered their lives with two carloads of food and clothing, some money and a lot of encouragement.

Inspired by her interest, the family began work on a new house. So far they have dug out space for a basement and almost finished the stone foundations.

CHARITY FUND GROWS

It all came about when Sergeant Gillette, who lives at 1365 Campbellton Rd., realized her personal fund for charity work had become a sizable amount of money.

"For about two years I've been setting aside part of each month's paycheck to be used to do some good in this world," Sergeant Gillette explained.

Then a friend told her of the Milligans' situation, and she went out to their home to see for herself.

She found their small house "immaculately clean," but without running water or electricity. There were no screens on the windows, so one of the younger girls always stayed near the baby Clarence to keep flies away from him.

"There in the middle of the room they use for a kitchen and dining room was a big family Bible," Sergeant Gillette remarked. "Its pages were a little tattered so you could tell they read it a lot."

OTHERS INTERESTED

Determined to help the family, Sergeant Gillette returned to her Third Army office and told her co-workers about the Milligans. They collected more than $40 to buy a second-hand bed. Before that, four of the little girls had to sleep crosswise on one bed, Sergeant Gillette said.

Then the WAC took the Milligan story to merchants in her neighborhood. They contributed canned food and meat. Buyers at the Farmers' Market gave bushel baskets of fresh vegetables. Friends and church groups collected used clothing.

Armed with these gifts, Sergeant Gillette returned to the Milligan home. The food and clothing is helping tide the family over until Milligan's hand is well enough so he can return to regular work. Some of the money was used to buy materials for the foundation of the new house, which Milligan and the children are building with their own hands.

F-Family A-Adult

By PAUL JONES

"White Witch Doctor"—Beautifully photographed by Academy Award winning cameraman Leo Shamroy, this adventure thriller now showing at the Fox Theater is a real "crowd pleaser."

Based on a novel of the same name by Louise A. Stinetorf, the screenplay contrasts the thrills of jungle intrigue with a heart-warming romance which is effectively played by Susan Hayward and Robert Mitchum. Except for the rather contrived ending the picture deserves to be placed in the top category of good movies.

Susan Hayward

Producer Otto Preminger makes use of exceptional camera studies of the Belgian Congo. Miss Hayward's role as the nurse who seeks a new way of life caring for natives on the Dark Continent is one of her most convincing portrayals.

Reviewer's rating: Good drama. "F" classification.

"The Story of Three Loves"—Much in the fashion of Somerset Maugham's "Trio and Quartet," this grouping of three romantic tales offers a variety of superior screen entertainment with at least a dozen top-notch performers prominently featured in the three sequences. It's now at Loew's Grand.

The first and last of the romantic vignettes are superb. The first features Moira Shearer (star of "The Red Shoes") and James Mason in the story of a ballet dancer who is inspired to dance again without regard for her health when she meets a noted impressario. Miss Shearer demonstrates that she is a capable actress as well as a gifted dancer. The third vignette teams Kirk Douglas and Pier Angeli as circus aerialists whose devotion to each other overcomes a fear of death. Leslie Caron and Farley Granger team in the third sequence.

Show Pieces Make Hit of Pops Concert

By PAUL JONES

A near capacity audience attended the fourth of the Summer Pops Concert Series Sunday at the Fox Theater, which featured three Georgia soloists in selections from opera and musical comedy, and presented the orchestra in novelty selections from movie scores and special arrangements of classics.

Albert Coleman's gift for selecting just the right thing turned this into possibly the outstanding concert of the season. He chose selections such as the score from "Since You Went Away," the third movement from Hansen's Symphony No. 2 and a dual arrangement of music from the movies "Laura" and "Ruby" as show pieces with which to demonstrate the orchestra's musicianship and versatility.

The two-part "Laura" and "Ruby" number was effectively staged, played and sung by the starlight choir, featuring Doris Edwards.

The three soloists, Helen Horne, soprano; Larry Walz, pianist, and Robert Moulson, tenor, were as good as Atlanta Pops audiences have heard this year.

Drivers Set Auto Insurance Costs

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Take a look at the cost of your current automobile insurance policy.

Disturbing, isn't it?

Yet, State Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey points out you set the high cost yourself. You, and the 1,500,000 other licensed auto drivers in Georgia.

Auto accidents have skyrocketed within the last five years, Cravey said. As accidents rise, the auto property damage and personal liability rates must be increased to meet the greater cost of operation.

Most Georgia insurance companies which specialize in auto coverage operated at a loss during 1948-50, Cravey declared. He said an increase granted in 1951 and another hike in 1952 placed the companies in a secure position last fall.

STATISTICS

1945 reported accidents.. 4,239
1949 reported accidents.. 9,622
1950 reported accidents..12,487
1951 reported accidents..20,064
1952 reported accidents..31,484

This year's prospects are no brighter. Auto registrations in Georgia shot past the 1,000,000 mark at the turn of the year, with 1,012,595 registered as of Jan. 1. This is an increase of 175,074 vehicles over Jan. 1, 1949.

More vehicles on the roads necessarily increases the accident ratio, State Patrol officials point out.

Auto insurance—virtually mandatory since the passage of the driver responsibility law in 1951—very likely will have to be hiked still higher unless the climbing accident curve can be broken, Cravey said.

INCREASE

An 11 per cent hike was granted in bodily injury rates on private passenger autos on Aug. 20, 1951, he said, and at the same time the state permitted a 19 per cent increase in property damage rates for the same class vehicles.

On Sept. 1, 1952, the state allowed a 16 per cent raise in the bodily injury rates for private passenger autos and 39.3 per cent in property damage rates.

During this same period, Cravey pointed out, carefully trained commercial drivers kept their accident instances down and were rewarded financially. He said there was no increase in the rates in bodily injury for commercial vehicles and only a 34.3 per cent hike in property damage rates.

The insurance commissioner has a remedy for the high auto insurance rates. He suggests that each driver take a look at the high cost of his auto insurance policy each time he sets out upon a motor trip and govern himself accordingly.

As for those who cannot realize that accidents raise the insurance rates, the commissioner has one solution:

"Let them feel the strong arm of the law," he said.

CONTINENT FOUND 'BEAUTIFUL, EXCITING'

Europeans Applaud Emory Glee Club

Europe likes the 1953 Emory Glee Club as much as the glee club likes Europe!

So says Arthur Brandenburg, business manager of the club, who reports Emory's famed singers have been given a "wonderful reception" by European audiences to date.

And glee club members—who have seen sights ranging from England's young Queen to Norway's centuries-old landmarks—frequently use such adjectives as "beautiful," "exciting," and "fabulous" in their letters describing Europe to the folks back home.

Thirty members of the glee club, accompanied by Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, director, and Mrs. Dewey, are nearing the half-way mark of their three-month tour, the first the club has made abroad since 1928.

One young Emory tenor, Leon Thornton, confided:

"I've fallen in love with England!"

Leon, who is a regular soloist at Grace Methodist Church, wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thornton, 1148 Hardy St., N. E., that he particularly liked Salisbury, England—"the most fabulous place in the world."

LIKES OLD TOWN

"The town is so old," he noted, "that it looks like it was here when England rolled out of the sea."

The Emory Glee Club sang over Great Britain's single television station soon after its arrival in England. The program included Bach selections, Negro spirituals, Rodgers and Hammerstein melodies and Emory's alma mater song.

Queen Elizabeth was on tour in Edinburgh, Scotland, when the glee club arrived there. Tom Callahan, 21-year-old tenor soloist, sent his wife (he's the only married club member) snapshots he made of the Queen on parade. He described the occasion:

"She (Queen Elizabeth) was passing through the streets lined on each side with Scotch soldiers in their beautiful colored uniforms. . . . She was preceded and followed by guards, clad in beautiful armor and helmets. . . . She was dressed very plainly in a purple hat and suit with black gloves. The Duke of Edinburgh was sitting beside her, but I was so busy taking pictures, I missed seeing him. He's not important anyway."

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. W. T. Callahan, 1752 Melrose Dr., S. W., Callahan wrote that the glee club sang in Oslo and Bergen, Norway.

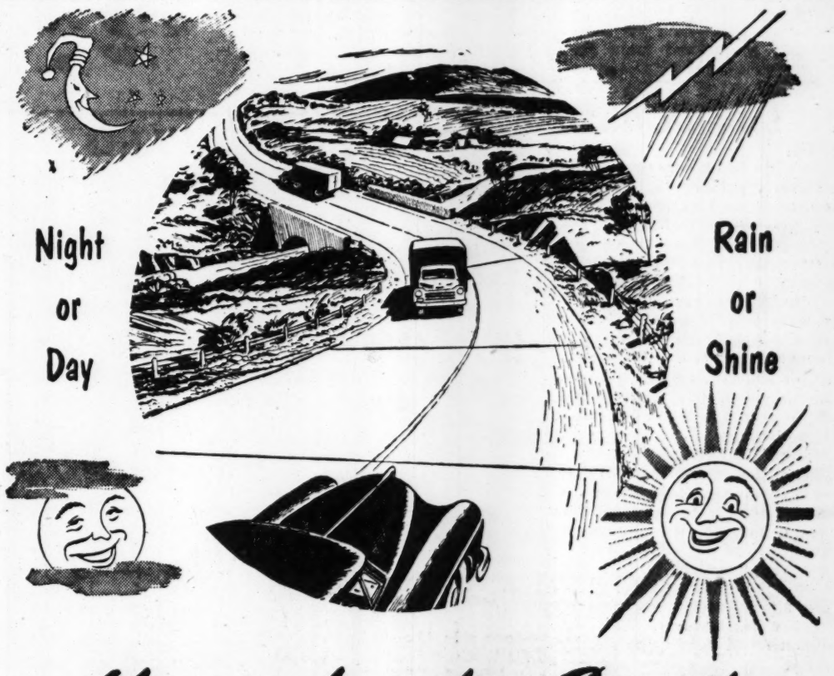

"They really liked us," he reported. 'They said they had never heard anything like it. That's pretty good considering they have at least 50 choral organizations in Bergen alone."

HONORED IN NORWAY

Edgar Boling Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Boling, 1236 Springdale Rd., N. E., wrote his parents that club members were given a "royal reception" in Norway. They were given honorary memberships in the choral guild in Bergen.

Richard M. Gilchrist, son of Mrs. John M. Gilchrist, 40 Inman Circle, N. E., said the coronation decorations were still up in London and are "quite interesting." In addition to seeing the Queen in Scotland, Gilchrist said he saw Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother as they drove up to Buckingham Palace.

You can depend on Concrete
...it's the SAFETY pavement!

All over America highway deaths are reaching tragic proportions. The first step in reducing this terrible annual toll is to pave our highways with the safety pavement—concrete. Here are the reasons why concrete pavements have such a high degree of built-in safety:

AT NIGHT light-colored concrete reflects more light. You can see farther and you can see obstructions, pavement edges and pedestrians clearly.

RAIN OR SHINE concrete's gritty surface provides uniformly high skid resistance. You can stop quickly and safely in emergencies.

NIGHT OR DAY concrete is a safer pavement because of its high light reflectance and skid resistance. It also is free from hazardous ruts, corrugations and chuckholes. This built-in safety may prevent accidents for you!

Concrete also offers outstanding economy. It is moderate in first cost yet costs far less to maintain and lasts much longer. Result: low-annual-cost service.

It's your money, Mr. Highway User, that pays for highways. Get the most for your dollars. Insist on the safety and economy of concrete roads.

Atlanta School Architects Advised of State Control

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Architects on the new Atlanta school expansion program have been advised that they are responsible to the State School Building Authority—not to the Atlanta Board of Education.

John E. Sims, authority director, emphasized this point to the architects to avoid confusion which he said would result if they delt with both the authority and board of education.

Sims pointed out that the expansion is being financed by loans made by the authority, and that the architects are employed by the authority.

Last week, members of the Atlanta board spent hours arguing about progress of the 29-project, $7,010,000 construction program. The $324,000 Ridgewood school was the major bone of contention.

BUILDING ON SCHEDULE

James B. Godwin, of the Poundstone, Ayers & Godwin firm, architects on Ridgewood school, was quoted by a board member as saying Ridgewood school would be completed about June instead of next February as scheduled.

Godwin later said the work is virtually on schedule, and although there has been some delay about getting water, sewers and power to the site, he expects it to be finished on time.

In a communication to architects of the school construction program, Sims said:

"We ask you to recognize that the State School Building Authority is now the owner (of the projects), that your contract is now with the authority and that all transactions in the future should be handled solely by this office.

AVOIDS CONFUSION

"The authorities of the local school system have grown accustomed to dealing with you and may wish to continue to issue instructions and suggestions. This, of course, would result in confusion and delay accomplishment of what the local school officials wish to attain. Won't you please assist us in this connection by requesting local officials to refer all inquiries to the authority in order that you may be spared the difficult task of attempting to serve as liaison agent?"

Sims praised the Atlanta board and the administrative staff for the "very splendid co-operation given the authority in its efforts to expedite the expansion program." He specifically mentioned Miss Ira Jarrell, school superintendent; Thomas W. Clift, assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs, and J. W. Kreis, school architect.

"None ever exhibited more co-operation, more diligence or was more helpful than these officials," Sims said.

Wife Target Of Bullet, Harris Says

AUGUSTA, July 19—(AP)—The wife of a bus company official in this transit strike-crippled city charged today that she was shot at while driving along a lonely country road.

Mrs. Mary Harris, wife of Augusta Coach Co. Attorney Roy Harris, said six men in a dark sedan slowed up in front of her car late yesterday and waited until she drew near. Then there was a loud explosion, she said No one was injured.

Harris said, "We think this is connected with the striking bus drivers, and can't imagine anyone else shooting at her."

Mrs. Harris said it appeared as though someone shot at her front tires.

After the explosion, she said, the sedan fled and turned into a dirt road off the highway. Waynesboro police said a heavy rain washed the tire tracks away.

It was the first alleged act of violence since the coach company stopped operation of its busses, manned by non-union drivers, Thursday night in order to protect passengers from possible injury.

Bus service was halted after the home of J. H. Shofner, general manager of the bus company, was damaged by a bomb early Thursday. No one has been seriously injured in the 49-day-old strike.

Snowplows Free Australian Cars

SYDNEY, Australia, July 19 (AP)—The temperature dropped to 17 degrees in the Mt. Kosciusko "snow country" 300 miles southwest of here today. Snowplows and bulldozers had to be used to free several snowbound cars.

At Melbourne the mercury dropped to 4 degrees. But in Sydney it was an unseasonable 69 degrees, seven degrees above the average July maximum.

TWO GEORGIA CAP CADETS, AIR FORCE OFFICER OFF FOR EUROPE

(Left to Right) Cadets Holbrook, Robinson and Major Howell Leave Sunday

Two Georgia CAP Cadets To See Europe

Tours of Swedish and English military installations and historic spots were in store for two Georgia Civil Air Patrol cadets Sunday as they left with Air Force officers for briefing in Washington.

They will join other cadets in the exchange program which brings cadets from 15 foreign countries to the U. S.

An Atlanta cadet, Capt. Donald Holbrook, will visit Sweden during the four-week tour, accompanied by Maj. J. R. Howell, Air Force CAP liaison officer.

Cadet Capt. George Robinson of Newnan will tour England. Robinson was acting commander of the Georgia CAP encampment recently, while Holbrook is on temporary duty with the Georgia CAP Wing staff.

The cadets will fly overseas July 23 aboard military air transport. They will return Aug. 18.

The exchange program has been called "an increasingly important influence in the furtherance of international understanding" by Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command.

$5,000 Fire Damages Cotton Warehouses

Fire destroyed about $5,000 in stock at the C. L. C. Thomas Cotton warehouses at 209-225 Milton Ave., S. E., Sunday afternoon, the fire department reported.

OUR NEGRO COMMUNITY

3,000 Delegates Expected At Leadership Congress

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

More than 3,000 delegates are expected to attend the 46th annual session of the Christian Leadership Education Congress of the Sixth Episcopal District, Africa Methodist Church, at Morris Brown College Aug. 17-21.

The Rt. Rev. Sherman L. Greene, presiding bishop, said plans for the congress are nearing completion. He said general aims of the meeting are:

1. To discuss and plan work of the local church.

2. To develop leaders and teachers in Christian service.

Dr. J. R. Coan, director of religious education at Morris Brown College, said subjects the educational congress will discuss include church-related colleges, the campaign of spiritual mobilization for the AME Church, and future publications.

Participants in the congress will include presidents of colleges, deans of seminaries, editors of church papers, bishops and other officers.

Manley Lauds Women

Dr. A. E. Manley, newly appointed president of Spelman College, said women of today are more than just homemakers. He said an increasing number of women are taking part in policy-making in government and business. He emphasized that Spelman College's traditional interest encouraging leadership in women will continue.

Dr. Manley said he has spent the first two weeks at Spelman in taking inventory of the college. He added he plans to outline an ambitious program for the fall term.

Set District Congress

The West Atlanta District of Departmental AME Church Congress will be held July 21-24 at Wesley Chapel Church in Newnan.

The Rev. W. M. Whitters will be host pastor. Dr. Thomas J. Davis, presiding elder of the district, said he expected a large attendance from Atlanta.

Bishop S. L. Greene of Georgia will address the conference at a joint old-fashioned quarterly meeting with Mt. Zion and Wesley Chapel.

A round-table discussion on five phases of evangelism and a conference sermon by Dr. D. T. Babcock, pastor of the St. Mark AME Church, Atlanta, will be highlights of the meeting.

The congress will conclude with a mass meeting on the theme, "Christ, the Panacea For This Sick World."

Book Review Study

The Ministers' Union of the African Methodist Episcopal Church will add book review study to the weekly meetings, the Rev. J. R. Hurley, president of the union, announced. He said the object of the new feature is to keep the ministers abreast with the times.

"The History of Christianity" by Kenneth Scott Lalaurette was reviewed at the last meeting.

Divorcee, 21, Held as Shots Fell 'Suitor'

A 21-year-old divorcee was being held in city jail Sunday in connection with a Saturday night shooting affray in which a Stone Mountain man was critically wounded in the chest and abdomen, police said.

Dets. M. W. Blackwell and M. A. Johnson said Mrs. Margarette Prince, 474 Central Ave., S. W., is booked on a charge of suspicion of shooting another.

The man, Roy Lee Juhan, 24, was shot around midnight Saturday as he climbed the steps to Mrs. Prince's front door, the detectives said. He is still on the critical list at Grady Hospital.

The detectives quoted Mrs. Prince as saying she had dated Juhan until a week ago. Since then, she said, he had annoyed her with phone calls and threats.

Officers quoted her as saying Juhan tried to fight her escort at a dance Saturday night, and later telephoned her saying, "You better not be home when I get there."

She fired once through the front door and three more times from the porch as Juhan approached the house, police said.

Meanwhile, traffic officers said Juhan was being sought by police at the time of the shooting in connection with a hit and run collision in front of Mrs. Prince's house a few hours earlier.

They said Juhan ran into the front of one automobile, backed into another, then deserted the car and escaped through Mrs. Prince's home.

Shot Man After Icepick Threat, Policeman Says

A 21-year-old Negro armed with an icepick was shot Sunday as he advanced on an Atlanta policeman, police records showed.

The Negro, Paul Mills Jr., was not seriously wounded, Grady Hospital reported.

Ptl. J. J. Cooke, who shot Mills, said the Negro was first arrested, along with his father, at their home, 2110 Seaboard Ave., N. W., where illegal whiskey was found. The younger Mills ran into nearby woods, but minutes later was spotted by Cooke and his partner, R. A. Avery. Cooke said he shot the Negro as he advanced on the officer with the icepick.

Jews Oppose Forced Service for Women

TEL AVIV, Israel, July 19 (AP)—An estimated 5,000 orthodox Jews joined tonight to "pray and lament" over the government's intended introduction of a national service bill for women.

The bill, due to be presented to parliament Wednesday, provides alternative nonmilitary service for women who, for religious reasons, are conscientious objectors. It is being strongly opposed by religious elements.

SWAPPING IDEAS AT EMORY

Town-Country School Attracts Pastors

By LAURA BARRE

Rural pastors are attending the annual Town and Country School at Emory University, swapping ideas, learning new methods and getting fresh enthusiasm for the coming year.

The Rev. David A. Robb recently was discharged from the Air Force after serving two years, most of which he spent at Warner Robins Air Base near Macon. During that time he said he learned to love the South, and knew he wanted to work here.

TELLS OF CALL

Another reason for his wanting to serve in Georgia was the fact that it was under the ministry of Bishop Arthur J. Moore he felt himself "called to be a Methodist preacher."

"I feel that no minister is well-rounded until he has served in a rural area," the Rev. Mr. Robb added.

In New York he did governmental mission work in the slum areas of Chinatown and the Bowery. Now pastor of the Morven Charge (Morven is 12 miles north of Valdosta) the Rev. Mr. Robb has five churches, and preaches an average of three sermons every Sunday.

During his rural pastorate the minister hopes to set up nurseries and other youth programs, to "elevate the position of music in the services and to work in a little more ritual."

Also attending the school are the Rev. and Mrs. Clarence C. White of Lake Mary, Fla.

OUT OF RETIREMENT

A 72-year-old retired Presbyterian minister who had served his entire ministry in city churches, the Rev. Mr. White now is pastor of a one-room white frame country church near Lake Mary.

Since he took the pastorate 18 months ago the membership of the church has increased from eight members to 25, and attendance averages 35 at each of the two Sunday services and 18 at midweek prayer service.

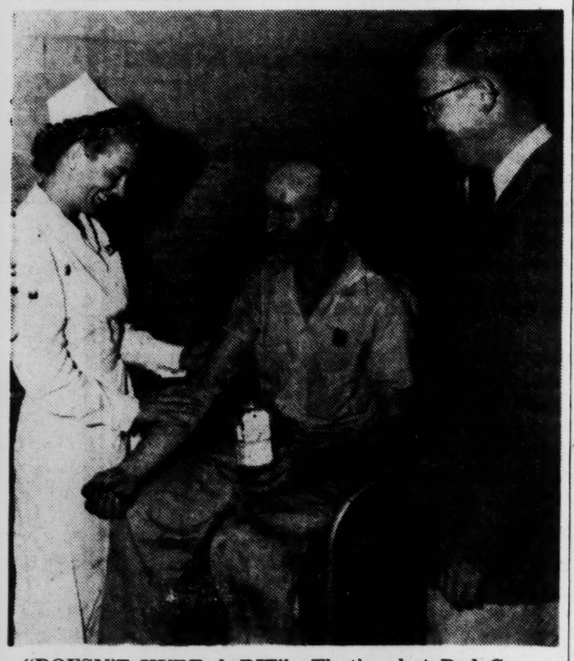

Future plans call for construction of four new Sunday school rooms, new pews to replace benches in the church, new carpets, construction of a recreation center and restoration of the community cemetery, which has long been out of use.

FORMER MISSIONARY

Another student at the school is a former missionary to China. Dr. Grady Cooper served 20 years in the Shantung Province as a Lutheran missionary, but when the Communists went into China, he was forced to leave.

Dr. Cooper chose to serve a country church when he returned to America because he felt it would be more like his mission work than would a city pastorate. Since 1948 he has been pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church at Little Mountain, S. C.

The main difference between mission work and a rural pastorate, Dr. Cooper said, is that in a rural community in this country, almost all the people are affiliated with a church, and the job of the minister is simply to guide them in the religion they already have, while in a mission field every person who has not already been converted is a potential convert and it is up to the missionary to teach Christianity to him.

Average '52 Work Force 61.3 Million

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 19—Total civilian employment remained at record levels last year, averaging 61,300,000 for the year, according to the annual labor force report released today by the Commerce department's Bureau of the Census.

The number of employed persons was not significantly greater last year than in 1951 but it exceeded the 1950 average by 1,300,000.

Nonagricultural employment reached a new high level last year, totalling 54,500,000 which represented a gain of about 500,000 compared with 1951 and an increase of 2,000,000 compared with 1950. Agricultural employment apparently continued its long-term decline, averaging 6,800,000 in 1952. This total was not significantly lower than 1951 but represented a decline of about 700,000 compared with 1950.

The annual survey of employed persons includes the self-employed and unpaid workers in family-operated enterprises as well as wage and salary workers.

The current report showed that unemployment last year dropped to a new postwar low with only 1,700,000 out of work compared with 1,900,000 in 1951 and some 3,100,000 jobless in 1950.

The labor force continued to expand in 1952, the report showed, but the rate of growth was at a somewhat slower pace than in other postwar years. At an average of 66,400,000 in 1952, the total labor force (the employed, the unemployed, and the armed forces) was some 600,000 larger than in 1951. The increase compared with an average annual gain of 1,250,000 in other recent years.

Last year for the first time, however, the total labor force surpassed the World War II peak, although the proportion of the population in the labor force was still under the wartime figure.

Total manhours worked in nonagricultural industries rose appreciably between 1951 and 1952, the report said, but the gains were due largely to the increased labor force. There was little change in the average work week in most major industries last year. In 1951, with the acceleration of the defense program, there had been a significant lengthening of the work week in such industries as manufacturing, construction and transportation.

English Episcopal Priest Becomes Iowa Methodist

FARRAGUT, Ia., June 19—(AP)—A minister of the Episcopal Church in England, who says he doesn't like London's fogs, will take over a Methodist pastorage here next Sunday.

The Rev. Norman I. Powell, pastor of St. Simon's Vicarage, Rockley Road, West Kensington, London, is leaving the Church of England to become pastor of the Farragut Methodist Church and the Madison Rural Church here.

The transfer was arranged by Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of the Methodist Church in Iowa and the Rev. O. E. Cooley, Council Bluffs district superintendent of the Methodist Church.

For the Rev. Mr. Powell it will mark a return to the religion of his youth. He was born in Wales and his father and mother were Methodists. But because Methodism wasn't very strong in his area, he became an Episcopalian when he was about 17.

The move to transfer Mr. Powell from the Episcopal Church in England to the Methodist Church here started when the Rev. Horace Ireland pastor of the Griswold, Ia., Methodist Church, visited England and returned to the West Kensington church where he once was choir boy.

Mr. Powell told Mr. Ireland he wanted to get out of the London fogs and the English weather and had always wanted to go to America.

Mr. Ireland told Bishop Ensley of Mr. Powell's wish and the transfer was arranged.

Oxnam Defends Church's Role in Combatting Reds

Takes Issue With McCarthy's Ex-Aide; Will Testify Tuesday

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam said today that "the church has done more to combat communism than all the congressional committees put together."

Oxnam spoke up one day before the House un-American activities committee is to decide whether to invite J. B. Matthews to give what he called "exhaustive documentation" of his charges that Reds and fellow travellers have infiltrated the Protestant pulpits.

Matthews quit as executive director of the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) at the height of a furor over a magazine article in which Matthews wrote:

"The largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

OXNAM WILL TESTIFY

Oxnam himself is to go before the House committee on Tuesday. The Washington bishop has for some time been carrying on a running feud with McCarthy and Rep. Velde (R-Ill), chairman of the un-American activities committee.tee.

Appearing today on the NBC radio show, "Faith in Action," Oxnam said that "No Protestant nation in the world has been infiltrated by communism" and that the Protestant church has steadfastly combatted the Reds by challenging their materialistic, godless philosophy.

He defended, too, the right of churchmen to propel themselves into social issues, saying they must speak up against anything that violates the gospel.

SPEAK AGAINST REDS

Two other Methodist bishops who appeared with Oxnam on the radio program also spoke out against both Communists and "political adventurers."

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of Des Moines, Ia., said "political adventurers of our times are playing on the fear in human minds" and that the church must fight back with "aggressive evangelism."

"We must make men so afraid of God that they won't be afraid of anything else," he said.

And Bishop William C. Martin of Dallas, Tex., head of the National Council of Churches, said there is "some basis" for the claim that certain political leaders are using attacks on the church to boost their political fortunes.

"Some persons," he said, "must have a platform on which to stand and when they find an area popular to attack, they ride in on it. Many attacks have been made under auspices when we have had no opportunity to reply."

New Volcano Reported Boiling Under Sea Off Lower California

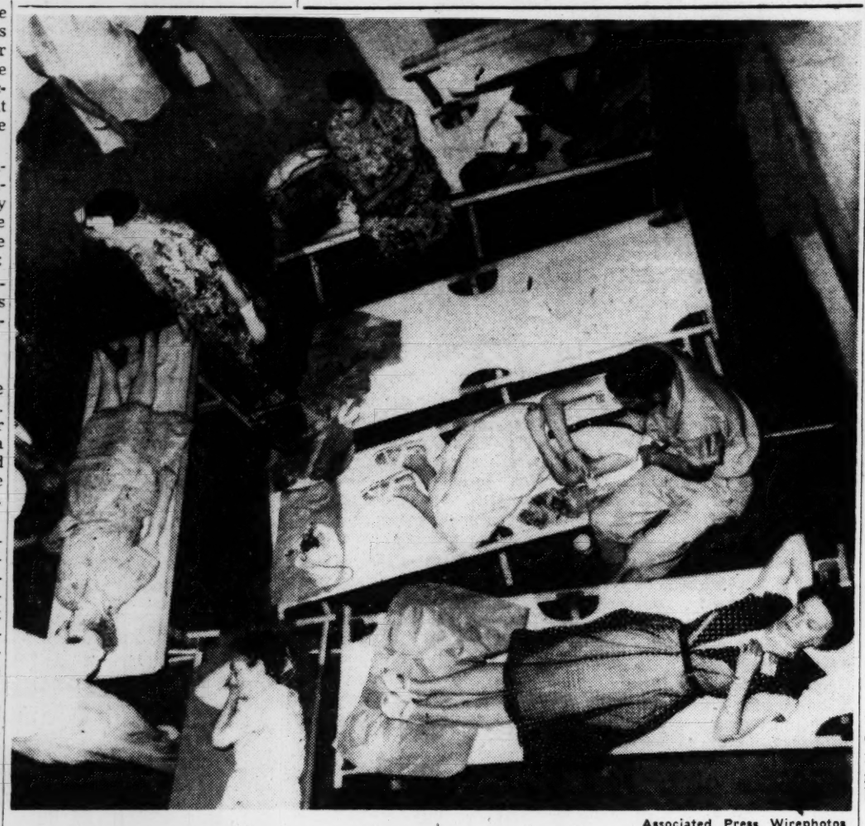

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 19—(AP)—A new volcano is boiling up from the ocean floor a mile off San Cristobal Bay on the west coast of Baja California, Mex., 360 miles south of here, the Coast Guard reported today.

The Coast Guard said word of the new volcano reached here from Carlos Hernandez, port captain of Ensenada, Mex., a fishing resort village 90 miles south of San Diego.

Hernandez said fishermen told him they saw dead fish and mud boiling up in 10 fathoms of water in the bay area.

The research vessel Horizon, of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, reported it witnessed the same phenomena Friday.

Conqueror of Bed Check Charlie Receives Navy's Highest Decoration

By ROBERT ALDEN
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TOKYO, July 19—Navy Lt. Guy Pierre Bordelon of Monroe, La., today officially became hero as the Navy Cross, one of the nation's highest military decorations, was pinned on his chest. Thus the storybook finish was put on a Korean saga of a squat little biplane that used to dust crops in India and a frustrated flier who finally conquered it in battle.

The story began some two years ago when the enemy, apparently scraping the bottom of the barrel, began sending over the United Nations' lines just after darkness a handful of outmoded single-engined aircraft. The principal one among these was of a type built in Russia in the 1920's and sporting a top cruising speed of 96 miles per hour. The Russians apparently had not much use for the craft for the plane was last observed spraying DDT on crops in Kashmir.

Now, however, the ancient craft were being loaded with grenades, mortar shells and crude aerial bombs which the pilot dumped on United Nations lines. The name popular during World War II for such nighttime callers, Bed Check Charlie, was soon adopted by front line troops for their unwelcome visitors.

ELUDES TRAP AT FIRST

After a time the Bed Check Charlie business became very embarrassing for the Air Force. Although the Air Force had 600-mile-per-hour jets and a great radar network, the pudgy little biplanes eluded its best efforts.

The Charlies flying low through valleys were spotted only with difficulty by radar and a jet was much too fast to get even a single firing pass at the lumbering biplane.

In desperation many odd methods were tried. A bovine, peaceable C-47 transport plane was loaded with flares and sent skyward, trailed by Air Force trainers on which were mounted 30-caliber machine guns. The transport plane was to drop flares illuminating the Charlies and the trainers were to close in for the kill.

The transport spotted enemy planes all right but when flares were dropped all they did was blind the trainer pilots who nearly rammed into each other in the dark.

So the C-47 tried to do it alone. It was loaded up with a group of eager volunteers sporting submachine guns, Sten guns, rifles and pistols. Out of every porthole weapons protruded and the usual peaceable transport bristled with firepower. This time, however, flares were dropped, but the enemy crop dusters were not spotted.

Just when all seemed lost Bordelon came upon the scene. He had been leading a life of quiet desperation. Since he was young (he is now 31) he had wanted to shoot down enemy planes.

During World War II he had become the pilot of a Gruman Wildcat and had been assigned to an aircraft carrier in the Philippine Sea. But the war was already far to the north and at its end the only enemy plane Bordelon saw was a Japanese plane he was shown during training.

CONFINED TO CRUISER

During his first tour of duty in Korea in 1951 he was confined to the deck of a cruiser as an intelligence officer. However, his hopes burned high when he was returned to the States to train with the first class of Banshee jet fighters. But instead of getting in the first class of Banshee pilots he got in the last class of the slower propeller-driven Corsairs.

It was a big disappointment for propeller planes just aren't fast enough to win air battles anymore.

With an hour's notice Bordelon was sent ashore to try the Corsair, which can be stepped down to 100 miles per hour, against the antique menace.

CAUGHT BY RADAR

Now land based, Bordelon took to the nighttime skies and one week later two enemy craft got caught in the radar scopes of the ground control approach system of an airfield.

For probably the first time in history the man in the control tower directed the dogfight. He got Bordelon on the tails of the enemy planes and after two hectic hours the Navy lieutenant returned to his home base, having shot both of his quarry down.

Two nights later Seventh Fleet commander Vice Adm. J. J. Clarke flew in to give Bordelon the Silver Star medal for his triumphs but at that very moment the lieutenant was out on the prowl again and before the night was done he had knocked down two more enemy planes.

Admiral Clarke thereupon drew up orders for a second Silver Star for Bordelon and promised him the high honor of the Navy Cross if he got his fifth crop duster. Last week Bordelon got his fifth, and today he got the Navy Cross.

Auto Industry at Peak, Sees Slack-off Ahead

By ELIE ABEL
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

DETROIT, July 19—Poised today at the summit of its production curve, the automobile industry knows that the next inevitable step will be downhill. Manufacturers and dealers agree that an "adjustment" is near.

They differ on the question of how far and how fast the curve will drop: Whether the giant industry faces a gentle settling to a lower plateau or a toboggan slide.

FEAR FUTURE

The factory sales executives, professional optimists for the most part who do their worrying in private, contend there is nothing wrong with the automobile business that a little old-fashioned salesmanship will not cure. The trouble, they say, is that too many dealers have forgetten how to sell in the lush post-war years of just taking orders for cars.

The dealers, particularly those who trade heavily in used cars, are, with few exceptions, outspokenly fearful of the future. They complain that the factories are turning out far too many new cars, and these can be sold only at heavy discounts or by over-allowing on used-car trade-ins.

Detroit is being watched closely these days by economists, bankers and government officials, who consider the auto industry a bellwether.

TURNING POINT

The assembly lines that fan out across the country consume about 20 per cent of the nation's steel output, 70 per cent of its glass and 70 per cent of its rubber.

The reason for all the furrowed brows is that the industry has reached a turning point. For the first time since 1940 it has again become truly competitive.

The pent-up post-war demand for new cars, which propelled the industry to record sales and earnings in 1949 and 1950, no longer exists. The material restrictions that limited production in 1951 and 1952 have been lifted.

CUTTING MARGINS

In the first six months of this year the auto plants rolled out 3,200,000 passenger cars, compared with 3,100,000 in the first half of 1951, the best previous period. Selling automobiles has become the increasingly grim business of many dealers cutting their margins about as deeply as overhead and factory discounts will permit.

The Big Three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—are determined to expand their respective shares of the market and have, to date, succeeded. The so-called independent manufacturers have tried, and failed, to hold the shares they were guaranteed last year when the government was allocating materials.

By the end of June the Big Three had jumped from 86.5 per cent of the market a year ago to 89 per cent. The independents dropped from 13.5 to 11 per cent.

Bordelon returned to Korea resigned to confining his activities to fighter bomber runs which he made for three months from the flightdeck of the Carrier Princeton. Then the Navy decided to lend a hand to the Air Force in the fight against Bad Check Charlie.

LAY OFF WORKERS

Dealer stocks of new as well as used cars are so high, just when they should be declining, that some worried manufacturers have urged Ward's Automotive Reports and the Department of Commerce not to publish their periodic tabulations.

A downturn in the latter part of the year is expected even by the optimists.

Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, has estimated that the market will absorb 5,500,000 new passenger cars this year. With close to 3,500,000 already built, the production tempo is bound to slacken. The industry again will be operating at its "traditional" pace, with 60 per cent of its annual output concentrated in the first six months of the year and the remaining 40 per cent stretched out over the last six months.

Some layoffs of automobile workers appear to be inevitable, coinciding perhaps with extended shutdowns for changing dies and fixtures to produce the 1954 models.

Heat Claims 200 at N. Y. Convention

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP)—Intense heat felled more than 200 of 80,000 Jehovah's Witnesses jammed into Yankee Stadium today for the opening session of the religious sect's eight-day world assembly.

A hot sun baked the baseball arena as thousands began pouring into the structure at 9 a. m. Two hours later the temperature inside the stadium was 92, although the official heat reading was 81.

NONE REPORTETD SERIOUS

Heat prostration cases were treated in both grandstand and bleachers as well as at first aid emergency stations. None of the victims was reported in serious condition.

The stadium, home of the New York Yankees, presented a vastly different appearance to its baseball dress. The pitching mound bloomed as a formal garden. Another floral display ringed the infield and, high above second base, was a speakers' green-boughed platform. Vivid posters covered the mezzanine and upper tiers of the stadium.

REPRESENT 96 COUNTRIES

The sect, formally known as the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, is represented by delegates from 96 countries outside the United States.

Witnesses believe in the literal truth of the Bible and each member works as at least a part-time minister of the gospel.

Only a small police detail was needed at the stadium, since volunteer members were detailed to policing and handling traffic and cleaning duties.

4 Alabama Men Held in Slaying

GADSDEN, Ala., July 19—(AP)—Four Etowah County men were held in jail here today after a Sand Mountain farmer was shot to death in an argument outside his home.

Lionell McCoy, 37, who lived in the Sardis Community near Boaz, died Saturday when the argument flared over a crap game at a homebrew party, sheriff Jesse Owens said.

Held for Coroner W. W. Morris were Talmadge Lawrence, 25; Euell Weeks, 26; Louis Lawrence, 29, and Clifton Breedlove, 32, all farmers in the Sardis area. No charges have been filed, the coroner said.

Cameras Cocked for Date With 'Saucer, Spacemen'

BRUSH CREEK, Calif., July 19—(AP)—Two miners said today they hope to keep their third date with a flying saucer tomorrow. Just to prove there is such a thing, John Q. Black and John Van Allen will have a group of photographers with them.

Black and Van Allen came to the office of Sheriff's Captain Fred Preston in Oroville last month and asked permission to shoot the spacemen if they came back to the lonely Sierra landing place.

The miners, who have had a reputation for sobriety and truthfulness, said a silver-colored flying saucer landed on the sandspit near their camp at 6:30 p. m. on May 20 and again at 6:30 p. m. on June 20.

They said that on each occasion the metal saucer lowered three retractable legs and a broad-shouldered man, four feet tall, climbed out. He carried an aluminum bucket to Marble Creek, scooped up some water and returned to the ship, Black and Van Allen said.

Then, they told Preston, he passed the bucket up to someone else and climbed a rope ladder back into the saucer which took off like a shot.

The miners figured the space ship and its unusual occupants would be back at 6:30 p. m. on July 20 and asked permission of the Butte County sheriff's office to shoot the spacemen for evidence.

Preston refused permission to shoot with guns but said "shooting" the saucer and its pilots with a camera would violate no laws.

Facts You Should Know About TV

None finer at Any Price!

All TV sets are basically the same.

The 3 major components of any TV set are: the tuner, the picture tube, and the cabinet. The remainder of the components cost from 1/10 of a penny to $5.00. In view of this it would be silly for Muntz TV, or any other major manufacturer, to try to save money on any of their low-cost components.

When you examine one of our sets you can readily see that Muntz TV spends as much, or more, for their cabinets as anyone else in the industry. It is also well recognized that Muntz uses the finest tuner that money can buy. It is used by more than 55% of the total industry. In the matter of picture tubes, Muntz TV has five suppliers who also supply the other top producers.

I would be foolish to state that Muntz is the best TV set made, but I will promise you there is none better on the market.

Here are some interesting figures on TV costs:

A TV chassis costs the manufacturer approximately $60.00 to build in mass production. Then the picture tube and cabinet are added to the manufacturing cost. From this, it is plain to see that television is not a hocus-pocus business. Basic TV costs are easily explained and arrived at.

In the normal run of business, average manufacturers double their costs to arrive at the list price of the set. The unit costing $100.00 to manufacture, automatically receives a $199.95 retail price tag.

With Muntz, no!

At Muntz TV, the set costing $100.00 to produce is being sold for $139.95 at retail during the "soft season," or summer months.

You might say: How can Muntz do it?

Here is how: In the Muntz "Direct Factory To You" operation, we employ several thousand people. We maintain our staff in production—not just for the peak selling season, but 12 months out of the year.

It is true we lose money during the summer months, but by selling our sets at cost, and sometimes below cost, we are able to maintain our volume and keep our plant and office personnel working without lay-offs, enabling us to produce sets more economically for our year-round business.

Now that you have some of the pertinent facts, it should be simple for you to understand that Muntz can, and does, give you the finest quality television regardless of price.

Our prices are so much lower than competitive sets because we do not have dealers or distributors who automatically add from 80% to 100% to the selling price.

Muntz has one price and it's "Factory To You."

Examine any other nationally accepted set and compare it with a Muntz TV, and you will find you are saving from 40% to 50% on our set.

Muntz prices now are at an all time low and will advance gradually within the next 60 days.

The Game That Got Away

SUNDAY AT PONCE DE LEON: The faucet that's been dripping the past three nights has finally been turned off, but somebody left the furnace going and it's hot enough to fry an egg on Neil Strocchia's skull. . . . Art Fowler swiped a base Saturday night, one of the upsets of the year. It was the first he ever stole in his professional life, and he's gloating in the dugout now about playing until he's 45. . . . If you ever get a chance to shake hands with Leroy Jarvis, inspect the gnarled fingers. They're a catcher's legacy, and he added a new one Saturday night.

The military is with us again today, Third Army band, and they're filling the stands with sound. . . . Dick Donovan's hardly warmed up his motor but the Vols are down his throat looking for runs. It's Bob Boring and Bill Taylor, double and single and run with two out. He got Buster Boguskie, though, which might win him a citation. . . . There ought to be a law against the way that little pest has been hitting down here—as if he brought his own special Sulphur Dell fence with him. During Friday and Saturday games he drove in six straight Nashville runs, which might be some kind of a record.

Bisher

What's the point in mapping out the batter's box, anyway? Nobody ever stands in it. Get a look at Ozark Ike Whisenant, for instance. His right foot is in the box seat section. . . . It looked like rhubarb in the second, when Donovan made a skidding stab of Bill Gardner's bunt attempt and cut down Gail Harris at first. Harris actually wasn't on first. He stood on second registering surprise but the Vols didn't challenge the call. . . . Boguskie's acting unfriendly again. It's a double in the third and a Boring homer behind it, and it's 3-1 Nashville. Donovan can't handle the meat of the Vol batting order. Boring and Taylor, the 3-4 men, have hit him four times in four at-bats.

Say, this Gardner's having a unique day. It's another double-play—this time on a liner to Vern Petty, and Harris is doubled off first again. . . . Four outs in two times up is about saturation, but back in the 1920 World Series old Clarence Mitchell, the pitcher, caused five outs in two times at bat. He hit into the famous Bill Wambsganss unassisted triple play, then a double play. . . . Pitchers aren't supposed to hit, but they shouldn't carry an old custom to such extremes. . . . Here's another one of those shots. Dick Sinovic hit this one about 395 feet into the scoreboard yard, but he scored all alone. . . . Petty's line homer that brought on the Saturday night rainstorm was his third. Lessee, only 50 more to go to break Charlie Workman's record.

—That Boguskie Guy Again

Jack Parks isn't usually so satisfying with southpaws at work, but the homer off Jim Constable in the second was a rifle shot 375 feet into the signs. . . . This has been an explosive series. Parks' homer was the seventh since Friday, and there are still 14 innings to go. . . . This isn't looking like Donovan's day. The Vols are after him again in the fourth. Two are out, but so is Donovan. The clincher was another Boguskie single.

It's gonna be Fitzgerald for Donovan—great day for the Irish. . . . But there was some craft involved before John the Eccentric reached the game. . . . Gene Mauch didn't have his bullpen crew alerted. Fitzgerald and Jarvis rushed out to the left-field corner in a trot. While Fitz warmed up like a guy fighting a swarm of bees, Mainzer, Parks and Mauch all took individual trips to the mound for feigned business conferences. . . . By the time the business was through, Fitzgerald was ready and Donovan hadn't had time to get into any further trouble.

Nobody's ruffling Constable's feathers. This boyish little monster hasn't been getting any argument from the Crackers at all. Chuck Tanner just got the second hit off him, and it's already the fifth.

—He Who Hesitates Is Lost

John the Eccentric is losing it now. It's been so long since the left-hander pitched that he had to be shown the direction of home plate. He just walked Bob Lennon and Harris and he gets a walk himself—to the clubhouse. Bob Giggie ended it all on one pitch that Gardner lifted to Whisenant. . . . This Whisenant is having a miserable time of it. He just hit his longest ball of the day, a dribbler to Constable. He'll still throw it farther than anybody, ball and bat both. . . . Record for longest bat-toss after strikeout, I believe, is held by a guy I once saw up in the N. C. State League. He threw it into the next county, which really wasn't so far. The county line split the ball park.

Ho-ho, we've just nudged Constable. The kid from Jonesboro (Tenn.) walked Bob Mainzer and gave Tanner a single. He's tired. His shirt looks like a piece of wet wash. . . . Goodbye Constable, here comes Pete Modica again. He's as regular as the milkman. The parent Giants have Wilhelm. The Vols have Modica. This is his 19th game in a month-and-a-half. . . . Billy Smith moves up runners with a sacrifice. That means that a good single can tie it up with Mauch, Wooten and Whisenant upcoming.

Oh, Catastrophe! He who hesitates is lost, and Mainzer hesitated and lost. Gardner cut him down at the plate on Mauch's grounder, and Wooten singled. It would have been two runs instead of one. Whisenant, may we all be forgiving, took a called third strike. . . . It's the series. Whatever happens hereafter is anti-climatic. The Vols can't leave town in any worse shape than they came, two-and-a-half games out front. . . . Down in the Cracker dugout it's gloomy. That was a big game. In September it might mean pennant. You can't get them back. I think I'll go off somewhere and cry awhile.

Vols Plaster Crax In Pair

Atlanta Flag Drive Shorted By Twin Defeats, 4-3, 7-5

By JESSE OUTLAR

Nashville Manager Hugh Poland has insisted all along that the Atlanta Crackers are the team to beat in the Southern—so his Vols beat 'em twice Sunday, 4-3 and 7-5.

One series doesn't make a season, of course, but the dual jolt cost the Crackers their second home set, three games to one, and left them four and a half lengths behind the rampaging Vols.

The 6,305 Ponce de Leon Park spectators had visions of their Crackers pulling the first one out with a ninth-inning comeback, but old Pete Modica choked off the rally.

Bob Mainzer's short stop, while en route home from third on an infield out, simplified Modica's task. Mainzer paused just long enough to be cut down at the plate on Bill Gardner's throw.

With their seventh one-run success over the Crackers in the books, the Vols resorted to vicious slugging tactics to wrap up the second game.

Judging from the two homers and five doubles, they mixed in their 10-hit flailing of Jack Brittin and three reliefers, the Vols must have thought they were back in their little Dell den.

But don't let anyone tell you that the blows were of the Dell variety. The successive homer shots by Bill Taylor and Bob Lennon in the third were up against the top tier of signs in right. And there was nothing meek about the other licks.

The Crackers had their share of solid knocks, but seldom connected with men aboard. Jack Parks and Dick Sinovic mauled solo homers in the opener, and Junior Wooten unloaded a three-run wallop in the short game. Sinovic's clout was a 395-footer to the scoreboard. During the four-game set, the two clubs split a dozen homers.

Manager Gene Mauch, in an all out effort to take one of the critical contests, employed eight hurlers, southpaw Bill George seeing action in both tilts.

Leo Cristante, one of two Cracker hurlers who didn't see service, probably will go against Chattanooga Monday in the first of three games against the Lookouts.

The Vols used four hurlers Sun- During the four-game set, the

Lopat, Raschi Both Go Nine

Ed Lopat

Vic Raschi

CHICAGO, July 19—(AP)—Ed Lopat and Vic Raschi, veteran frontliners of the New York Yankee pitching staff, cooled off the pennant-hopeful Chicago White Sox Sunday, 6-2 and 3-0, in a clutch double-header victory that disappointed an all-time Comiskey Park record crowd of 54,215.

Lopat, 35-year-old southpaw, limited the Sox to Sam Mele's home run and seven other assorted blows in winning the opener—his 10th victory in 11 decisions.

Raschi, crafty righthander who is Lopat's junior by a year, shut out the Sox with a deft two-hitter in the second game. Recording his seventh victory against four losses, Raschi served a double to Ferris Fain and a single to Chico Carrasquel but otherwise had Sox batters swinging futilely at his soft curves and sliders.

Mantle returned to action in the first game after a two-day layoff and, despite a sore knee that obviously was still bothering him, socked two doubles that accounted for three runs—including the two that broke a 2-2 tie in the pace.

Nats Maul Browns After Early Loss

ST. LOUIS, July 19—(AP)—The Washington Nationals turned five walks and seven hits into 11 runs in the third and fourth innings for an easy 13-4 second-game decision over the St. Louis Browns Sunday after dropping the opener, 5-4.

Tigers' Branca Makes First One Good One

DETROIT, July 19—(AP)—Big Ralph Branca, Brooklyn castoff whose famous home run ball will be remembered as long as baseball is played, won his first American League game today for the Detroit Tigers, stopping the Philadelphia Athletics 13-3 with a 7-hitter in the first game of a double-header. The nightcap ended in an 8-8 tie, called after 11 innings because of darkness.

Ray Boone hit two home runs for the Tigers, one with the bases loaded in the first game and, even more dramatically, another with two on in the ninth inning of the nightcap to tie the score, 8-8.

Red Sox Take Over Third Place By Beating Indians Twice, 2-0, 7-5

CLEVELAND, July 19—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox shut out the Cleveland Indians, 2-0, on a one-hitter in the opener and copped the second game, 7-5, on George Kell's three-run homer in the eighth inning Sunday.

The Red Sox, who have won five straight and nine of their last 10, took over third place, a half game in front of the Tribe.

Maurice McDermott, Boston's lanky southpaw, gave Cleveland only one hit in the first eight innings of the opener—a fourth-inning single by rookie outfielder Al Smith.

But McDermott walked eight, and when his first two pitches in the ninth were balls, Manager Lou Boudreau called on veteran right-hander Ellis Kinder to finish the job, which Kinder did in 1-2-3 order.

Catcher Sam White, whose homer won Boston a last-inning victory in Detroit Saturday, broke up a scoreless pitching duel between McDermott and Early Wynn by leading off the seventh with a home run. McDermott homered to lead off the eighth—his first round-trip blow of the year.

Braves Bounce Worthington, Avenge Early Thompson Clout

Capture Short Nightcap, 2-1, After Giants Win First, 7-5

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP)—Milwaukee shaded the New York Giants' rookie flash, Allan Worthington, 2-1, in the second game of a doubleheader, called after five innings by darkness, Sunday after Hank Thomson's two-run homer in the ninth gave the Giants a 7-5 victory in the opener.

The Braves ended Worthington's scoreless inning streak at 19 2-3 by scoring in the second inning. The young righthander won his first two National League starts from Philadelphia and Brooklyn by shutouts.

Normally the game would have continued under the lights but it is forbidden to turn on the lights on Sundays. When the game was called they still were playing in Brooklyn.

Bums' Big Rally Nets Split With Reds

BROOKLYN, July 19—(AP)—Brooklyn scored five runs in the eighth with the help of sloppy Cincinnati fielding and held off a ninth-inning threat for a 7-5 victory in the second game Sunday after Fred Baczewski and Ted Kluszewski teamed up for a 4-1 Cincinnati triumph in the opener. The split left the Dodgers three full games in front of Milwaukee.

The Dodgers appeared on the way to a double defeat until the eighth, when they were helped by two costly throwing errors by Roy McMillan and Bobby Adams to score five runs on only two hits.

Puddinhead's Hit Gives Phils Split

PHILADELPHIA, July 19—(AP). Willie (Puddinhead) Jones' ninth-inning single drove in the winning run as the Phillies pushed over three in the bottom of the ninth to beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in the nightcap of a twin bill Sunday. Homers won the first for the Cubs 6-3 as Dee Fondy hit a bases-empty blast and Hal Jeffcoat hit a three-run round-tripper in the Cubs' five-run fourth inning.

Stewart Ave. Given Win Over No. Fulton

Winners Face Lakewood Boys' Club at Poncey Today

Stewart Avenue Methodist's Cinderella Kids were awarded a forfeit decision over North Fulton Sunday and will meet the Lakewood Boys Club in the finals of the Atlanta Parks Department 17-and-under baseball tournament at Ponce de Leon Park Monday at 5:30 p. m.

The untouted Stewart Avenue boys were given the decision after North Fulton coach Frank Jernigan revealed that he had used an ineligible player in his semifinals game with Stewart Avenue Sunday afternoon at Center Hill, according to John Mullen, parks department athletic director.

Sam's acting manager, John B. Applegate, protested the game Sunday in the fifth inning with North Fulton leading, 5-1.

Ray Spruill, the North Fulton third baseman, was ejected from the game by the umpires at that point, and the Bulldogs were left with only eight players. It was then that Jernigan inserted the ineligible player.

Consolation games in the sandlot tournament will be played Monday night at Center Hill, first of two games starting at 7 p. m.

Suttles Wins Mericrycket Tennis Play

Cortez Suttles won the Tri-Cities tennis tournament for the 12th time Sunday, shading Jerry Hunt, 9-7, 7-5, at the Mericrycket Tennis Club in College Park.

Suttles' victory avenged a championship loss to Hunt last year. Hapeville Mayor Frank Lee presented trophies in the 22d annual event.

Vivian Conklin won the women's singles crown with a brilliant rally. She beat Becky Jones 6-4 in the first set and, down 5-0 in the second set, came back to take it, 7-5.

Suttles was in on another triumph as he and Pugh Smith turned back Jake Wade and George Egbert, 6-3, 6-4, in men's doubles semifinals. Warren Berry and Jerry Hunt became the other finalists by trimming Jody Brown and Tommy Thompson, 6-1, 6-2.

Simmons Whips Federal Pen, 4-1

Ellarbee allowed the losers only only one run. He fanned eight and gave up five singles.

Legion Nines Play at Rome, Gainesville

Full tournament schedules have been set up for Monday as the Seventh and Ninth American Legion Districts go about the business of naming champions to play in the First Area meet in Buford next week.

The Ninth District opens its tournament Monday with a double-header. Dahlonega meets Statham in the tourney opener at 2:30 p. m. in Gainesville and the cofavorites, Gainesville and Buford, clash in the nightcap.

Four games are set at home Monday in an effort to catch up and get the tournament over in time. The card sends McLain-Sealock No. 1 against Marietta, defending state champion, at 1:30 p. m. and the loser of that game meets Dalton at 3:30. Cartersville plays Smyrna at 6 p. m., the winner meeting McLain-Sealock No. 2 at 8 p. m.

PAR GOLF FOR WOMEN

Pitching-Chipping

(This is the third in a series of articles by Louise Suggs, women's golf's leading money winner from Atlanta, on how women may improve their golfing technique. The series is condensed from Suggs' book, "Golf for Women.")

By LOUISE SUGGS
Written for Associated Press

The simple chip shot from the edge of the green is one of the easiest in golf to execute. Yet, probably because of lack of concentration and willingness to practice, it is one of the most troublesome.

The fundamentals in playing this shot properly follow:

1. Be certain of your line. The face of the club must be perfectly square to the line on which you intend to hit the ball.

2. Weight is equally balanced on both feet and distributed evenly between the ball and heel of each foot.

3. Stance is open and feet close together.

4. It is a hands-wrist-arms shot.

5. The ball is played from a point just back of center of the stance.

6. The clubhead is pushed straight back away from the ball on the line of flight and follows through on the same line toward the hole after impact with the ball.

7. Use a pendulum-like swing.

In playing this shot I usually pick out a spot on the green where I want the ball to land, intending that it shall roll from this point to the cup.

The short pitch is most commonly used from within 50 yards of the pin in cases when you must get the ball up in the air and over obstacles between you and the green.

When properly executed with the wedge, the stroke imparts pronounced backspin, which causes the ball to stop short on landing.

The wedge is important to a woman. Because of lack of great hitting power, she often finds herself short of a par four hole after her second shot.

NEXT—Putting.

Bears Bow to Killinger's Single After 16-Inning Grind With Chicks

Mobile's Hood Twirls 15 Innings, Then Doesn't Get Any Decision

MOBILE, Ala., July 19—(AP)—Bill Killinger, after belting a two-run homer in the 11th inning, shot a sharp single to left in the 16th here Sunday to give the Memphis Chicks a 4-3 victory over the Mobile Bears.

Mobile centerfielder Ham Kamric ruined righthander Dick Straus' bid for a shutout with a base-empty homer over the right field fence in the ninth and sent the game into extra innings.

The Mobile outfielder also kept the Bears in the game after Killinger had socked his homer in the 11th. Hamric blasted a two-run double to tie the count again.

Righthander Wally Hood went 15 innings for Mobile and Al Bennett and Ken Fustin, also righthanders, saw action in the 16th. Bennett took the loss and Tommy Hurd, who relieved Strahs in the 12th, got the victory.

The win gave the Chicks the series, Memphis' last in Mobile for the year, three games to one. In all, the Chicks have beaten Mobile nine times and lost twice in Mobile this season.

Barons Sweep Pair

BIRMINGHAM, July 19—(AP)—The Birmingham Barons blasted the Chattanooga Lookouts twice Sunday afternoon, 10-4 and 11-0, to sweep their first doubleheader of the year.

Barons Norman Siebern and Emil Tellinger hit bases-loaded home runs—one in each game—to clinch the twin bill. Rain interrupted the nightcap in the sixth, but play was resumed under lights after a 25-minute delay. Righthander Dick Fiedler pitched the seven-inning shutout for Birmingham, giving up five hits.

Travs, Pels Split

NEW ORLEANS, July 19—(AP)—Little Rock and New Orleans divided a rain-delayed Southern Association double-header here Saturday night. New Orleans won the seven-inning opener, 8-4, and the Travelers came back to win the nightcap, 6-2.

New Orleans jumped on Little Rock lefthander Dick Hoeksema in the second inning of the first game for six runs on seven hits. That gave Paul Pettit a solid lead and the ex-bonus baby was credited with the victory, despite his fading in the sixth when Little Rock scored three runs.

Little Rock bunched four hits with two walks for four runs in the fifth inning of the second game off Pelican starter Bob Purkey. The Travelers scored two more off Bill Lathorpe in the sixth on two more walks and two singles.

Mayfield Victorious At St. Paul With 269

Texan's Final 65 Edges Dutch Harrison, Sam Snead

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 19—(AP)—Twenty-nine-year-old Shelley Mayfield crashed through to the first victory of his professional career Sunday with a scorching 19-under par 269 to win the St. Paul Open Golf Tournament.

Mayfield, a handsome transplanted Texan from Cedarhurst, N. Y., climaxed a blazing four-day sub-70 grind with a 65 to edge Dutch Harrison, Ardmore, Okla., by two strokes.

One stroke back was Sammy Snead, the tournament favorite who played erratically to miss the chance to overtake a collapsing Freddie Haas, the third-round leader.

The win was worth $2,400 for Mayfield, whose best previous showing was a first-place tie in the Houston Open earlier this year. He lost that one on a playoff.

Mayfield, superb with his irons and flawless on the greens, had 18-hole totals of 69, 67, 68 and 65. He was over par on only two holes for the four days.

Mayfield hacked out a three-under-par 33 on the front nine Sunday. Then, with the aging Harrison warming up on the back nine, the strapping newcomer hammered four more birdies on the home stretch for 32.

Vols Hand Crax Nine Twin Loss

two clubs split a dozen homers. day, with their two southpaw stars picking up the victory chips. Jim Constable, who yelled to Modica for help in the ninth, improved his record to 13-8.

Jack Harsnman, the Saturday night loser, chalked his 17th success, compared to five setbacks, thanks to a scoring rule.

Though starter Jim Singleton owned a 7-3 lead when he was pulled with none out in the fifth, he couldn't receive the victory. The winner must hurl five rounds, even in a seven-inning game.

First hint that Dick Donovan, lead man in the Cracker pitching parade, wasn't sharp came in the first when Bob Boring banged a two-out double and counted on Bill Taylor's single.

Parks rubbed out the deficit with his 15th homer, a wallop into the signs, in the Cracker second. But the dangerous Boring, who framed a trio of doubles and a homer, jarred Donovan for a two-run clout over the left fence in the third. Buster Boguskie's double preceded Boring's number 16.

What proved to be the winning run came via a bases-loaded walk to Harvey Gentry in the fourth. John Fitzgerald signed the pass, but Donovan put the winning marker on and was blotted with his fourth loss.

Again there were two down when Donovan got into his final jam as a result of singles by Rube Novotney, Constable and Boguskie. At that juncture, Fitzgerald took over and walked Gentry on four pitches.

Fitzgerald then blanked the Vols through the seventh, with last-out relief from Bob Giggie in that round. Boring's double and two walks packed the sacks, but Giggie disposed of Bill Gardner on a fly to close out the threat.

Bill George hung up zeroes for the last two stanzas, but the Crackers wound up a run shy when the ninth-inning rally failed.

A walk to Mainzer and Chuck Tanner's single brought Modica, the reliefer de luxe, on the scene in the final inning. Billy Smith, batting for George, bunted both runners along.

When Mauch grounded to short, Coach Whit Wyatt flashed Mainzer the green light, but Bob unexplainably stopped for another look at third and Gardner threw him out. Wooten then delivered Tanner with a hit to left, but Modica breezed a called game-ending third strike past Pete Whisenant.

Harris' single and a double by Gardner in the second inning of the sundown game, gave the Vols a lead they never relinquished.

After Gentry walked in the third, Taylor and Lennon tagged Jack Brittin for homers on successive pitches with two out. It was Taylor's 10th and the 19th for Lennon.

The Crackers almost got even on a three-run homer by Wooten, a zany affair on which Mauch was first called out at the plate.

The homer blast landed inches inside fair territory right at the left fence. Chuck Tanner and Mauch, both of whom had walked, dug for home. Third base umpire Frank Girard had not signaled a homer, so plate arbiter Neil Strocchia called Mauch out at home. Of course, he was ruled safe a moment later, when Girard made up his mind.

Art Fowler was bumped for two runs in the fifth when Boring and Lennon wrapped doubles around a walk and Gardner lifted in RBI fly.

Crackers made their final bid with two in the home half on Sinovic's run-producing single and some neat base-running by Whisenant, who had singled and took third on Sinovic's lick. He scored when Gardner took Parks pop on the edge of the infield grass.

Control Off, Art Fowler Walks Man

Joe Engel will put on his Pot O' Silver show when his Lookouts play here Monday night. Of course, it's Earl Mann's dough Joe will give some lucky fan. . . . When Art Fowle walked Bill Taylor in the fifth inning of the second game Sunday, it was his first pass in 24 1-3 innings. . . . Nashville closed out the Poncey portion of its scheduled with a 6-5 edge. . . . Big RBI duel between Bob Boring and Dick Sinovic failed to materialize. They knocked in three each, giving Boring 81, Sinovic 75 for the year. Buster Boguskie was the leading run producer in the series, driving across the first six Vol markers. . . . Third Army band furnished music Sunday in connection with the blood donor drive. Roy Jarvis, forced out of the lineup when a foul tip struck his right index finger Saturday night, says he's ready for duty again. . . . Pete Whisenant, riled over a third called strike by Frank Girard which ended the first game, broke his bat on home plate. . . . Crackers Fowler and George and Vol Modica pitched in three of the four games. No one went the route. In fact no starter has finished against Atlanta in ten games.

MATHEWS STORY OVER AGAIN: BULLDOGS LOSE CALIFORNIAN

It must have sounded like a scratchy replay of an old phonograph record to Coach Wallace Butts this week when the University of Georgia lost a Santa Barbara, Calif., football prospect to pro baseball.

Sal Herrera, football fullback and .475-hitting prep outfielder, signed a Georgia grant-in-aid last spring. Now he's acepted a contract with the Milwaukee Braves.

Four years ago, another Santa Barbaran swapped a Georgia pact for one with the Boston Braves, Milwaukee's National League predecessor. Today he's one of the major leagues' leading sluggers—Ed Mathews.

Georgia is hitting .333 in the Santa Barbara Prospect League only because Eli Maricich came to Georgia from the Marine Corps there. He played four years as a halfback. But, true to Santa Barbara tradition, he's playing pro baseball, too—a 22-homer man for Eastman in the Georgia State League.

PIERCE MILLER (R) GRABS THIRD ELKS GOLF CROWN

'Little Mo' Breezes to Clay Crown

CHICAGO, July 19—(AP)—Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., holder of the United States, Wimbledon and Australian tennis championships, added the National Women's Clay Court title to her collection Sunday.

Miss Connolly—Little Mo—defeated Althea Gibson of New York City 6-4, 6-4, in a 52-minute match.

Victor Seixas of Philadelphia won the men's clay court crown, defeating Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

The women's contest was a breeze for Miss Connolly. In Miss Gibson, the Californian met for the first time an opponent who matched her sped and drive. But the New Yorker, lanky Negro who is ranked ninth nationally, showed plainly the effects of her 2-hour-35-minute marathon with Anita Kanter of San Francisco Saturday.

Closing 74 Gives Victor 285; Maher, Broadwater, Roane Trail

By BERT PRATHER

The fifth annual Southeastern Elks golf championship was a Pierce Miller show all the way. The slender Cascade Lodge representative went through the formality of clinching the crown for the third straight year with a 74 Sunday afternoon over Meadowbrook County Club's par-71 course.

This gave the former city amateur champ a 72-hole total of 285, one over par for the distance. After winning the qualifying medal with a 69, Miller opened his championship bid with a sparkling 66 Thursday. He came back with 73 Friday and a 72 Saturday to move 10 strokes to the good and close the door in the faces of his pursuers.

Johnny Maher, former baseballer who is developing into a pretty fair country golfers finished in the runner-up spot with 75-71-75-76—297. Two strokes back was big Irby Broadwater with 74-75-74-76—299. L. B. Roane was fourth with 302.

In the championship B division, Frank Higgins, who returned to competition after a long layoff, finished strong to deadlock favored Bill Ansley at 321. Higgins was far down the list at end of 35 holes but came back with a pair of 76's Saturday and Sunday to grab a share of first place. Ansley finished with an 81 Sunday. Ansley captured the trophy in a one-hole playoff.

Although he did not get into the prize circle, Al Burrows pulled the most spectacular shot of the tournament when his seven iron shot found the cup on No. 8 for an eagle two. Burrows showed the fans around the ninth green he was really in the groove by chipping in from the bank. He got only a par here since he pulled his second and was short with his first chip.

All participants and their ladies were guests at a buffet dinner Sunday night at Buckhead Lodge. Decatur Lodge was co-host for this final party.

Al Ross, who fathered the Elks Golf Association and has made the tournament click for the past five years, has stepped up to honorary president. Dr. E. L. Graydon is the new prexy. Other officers are Tom Brisendine, secretary and treasurer; Pierce Miller, Tom Bryan, Roy Darden, Jack King and Charlie Gurrard, vice-presidents.

Billy Hall Hurls Second No-Hit Amateur Contest

Grant Park Ace Defeats Caye, 8-2; Loop Leaders Win

By TOM BROWN

Grant Park's Billy Hall came to the rescue of fellow pitcher Vinson Phab in the first inning with none out, the bases loaded, and proceeded to pitch his second Piedmont Amateur League no-hitter of the season, downing Caye, 8-2, Sunday afternoon.

Hall received credit for the no-hitter since no one was out when he entered the game. The victory kept Grant Park in a tie for second in the Piedmont League.

The Grant Park ace walked in one run in the first inning and allowed one more in the eighth when a walk and successive steals of second and third set up a run-scoring infield out. Otherwise he was untouchable, striking out seven and walking four. Hall handed Klondike a no-hit loss three weeks ago.

Pitchers were hot all over the amateur loops Sunday.

International Paper's J. D. Hewatt and North Clayton's Bobby White pitched two-hitters against each other, Hewatt winning a squeaker, 2-1. He fanned ten.

Southpaw Hoover Tally, touted by Welcome All as the best pitcher in Atlanta amateur ball, hurled his league leading team to a brilliant 11-0 one-hit win over Raymond in the West Georgia League.

Jackson Loan retained its unblemished record in the Georgia League on the fine pitching of Charlie Landers, who beat runner-up Atlanta General Depot, 3-1. In his previous four outings Landers has pitched two five-hitters and two four-hitters.

The sluggers had their say about some games Sunday, too. Most notable case is that of Candler Park's Bobbie McCauley who slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning to give his team their first win in Georgia League play, 12-8 over Bolton Post 156. McCauley poled a flyout to deep center in the sixth to score men from second and third.

HEAVYWEIGHT HEADLINER

Harrison, Bucceroni Wade in Wednesday

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP)—With the Rocky Marciano-Roland La Starza heavyweight title bout now definitely set for Sept. 24 at New York's Polo Grounds, the rest of the heavyweight class is beginning to stir.

At Chicago Wednesday night, there is a meeting of two high-ranked contenders, Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia and Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles in a nationally televised (CBS) bout.

Bucceroni, ranked No. 3 among the challengers by Ring Magazine, holds a decision over La Starza. Many think the lanky Philadelphia slugger may prove to be the most interesting challenger for Marciano in another year. Harrison, a Marciano sparmate last summer, whipped Jimmy Bivins and Wes Bascom after he was overmatched with Ezzard Charles, who stopped him in nine rounds.

Syracuse, N. Y., one of the hottest fight towns in the country, gets another big sellout show Saturday night when Carmen Basilio, Canastota, N. Y., battler, boxes Billy Graham of New York in a rematch. The 12-rounder will be for the New York state welter title, now held by Basilio. The two boys did $46,000 in their first meeting. The fight will be televised nationally (ABC) with the Syracuse area blacked out.

Juniors Seek USGA Spots

Three tickets into the sixth annual Junior Amateur Championship of the United States Golf Association next week at Tulsa, Okla., will be the stakes Monday morning at East Lake Country Club where 19 youngsters are scheduled to tee off in the 18-hole section qualifying.

Most of the top young golfers of the state, including City junior champ Tommy Bates, Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Charles Thomas III of Atlanta, Hugh Royer Jr. of Columbus, and Bobby Lemming of Atlanta, will be in the field which is scheduled to report to USGA junior golf committeeman George Sherrill at 10 a. m.

This year's National will be staged over the Southern Hills Country Club at Tulsa, July 29-Aug. 1.

Washington Wary But Hopeful

longed discussion. There was some belief that the truce and cease-fire could become a reality within the coming week. But that hope was not expressed publicly.

Exactly what needs to be done before an armistice document can be signed was not fully disclosed here. An agreement on a final truce line, and an official translation of the document itself were among the preliminaries suggested by officials. It also was noted that the Communists wanted agreement beforehand on where the nonrepatriated prisoners, which Indian troops will guard, are to be held.

CONCERN OVER RHEE

There remains some concern over what Syngman Rhee, president of South Korea, might do, despite his statement that he will no longer stand in the way of a United Nations armistice, and despite Communist acceptance today of United Nations assurances that South Korea will obey the truce terms.

Considerable attention has been paid here to a threat Friday night by Dr. Pun Chan Yang, South Korean ambassador to the United States. In a San Francisco speech, the envoy said that his government would "attack" if the Korean peninsula had not been unified within 190 days of the ceasefire order. This is not in line with the truce terms, which set no time limit for working out the question of Korean unity.

HANDS OFF PLEDGE

In his statement, Gen. Nam Il, the leader of the North Korean truce delegation, said the United Nations command had given assurance that if South Korean action should require the North Korean forces to counter-attack, the United Nations command still would maintain a state of truce.

This raised a puzzling point that could not be immediately clarified. Who would decide when a Communist counter-attack was warranted under the truce terms? Also, should such fighting break out, just how would the UN command act to maintain the truce?

Clark Hails Red Okay As Encouraging

day to proceed immediately with "preparations prior to the signing of an armistice." Presumably the staff officers were working on those final preparations.

A group of UN command officers headed by Col. Douglas M. Cairns met with the Reds and recessed 20 minutes later. Interpreters with the group then met and still were in session this afternoon.

Another group of Allied staff officers headed by U. S. Col. James C. Murray met for 42 minutes with the Communists, recessed for 18 minutes and then reconvened at 11 a. m.

Gen. Nam Il said that in view of assurances given by the UN command "our side is . . . prepared to discuss with your side immediately the various preparations prior to the signing of the armistice agreement."

Among the unsettled points were the drawing of a new demarcation line between the opposing armies and selection of the neutral area where reluctant anti-Communist prisoners, including some 8,000 North Koreans and 14,000 Chinese, will be held while the Reds try to persuade them to return home.

In Seoul, South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai viewed the Communist statement with misgivings. He said there were "many traps" in the Reds' assertion that they would go ahead with preparations for signing.

In South Korea's first official reaction to the Communist statement, Pyun said it contained "three serious points" which bared "Communist intentions to take all South Korea by subversive activities and by liquidating the Republic of Korea army which we have built so painstakingly and with so much expense."

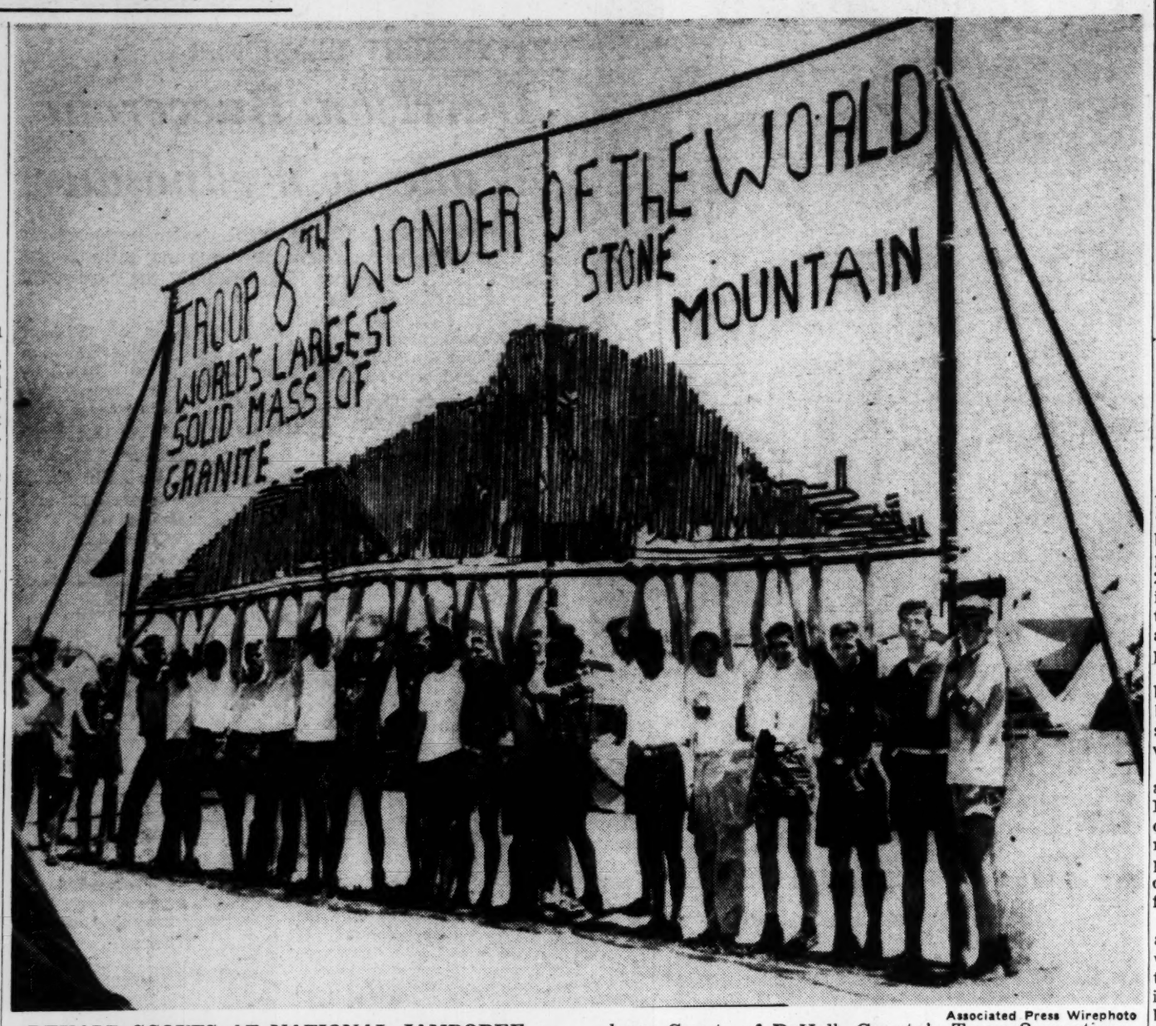

In his statement, Nam said the UN command gave assurances that:

1. South Korea will not obstruct a truce.

2. South Korean forces will cease firing within 12 hours of the signing and withdraw from the buffer zone within 72 hours, as provided in the truce draft.

3. The UN command will not support any aggressive action of the South Korean army in violation of a truce, nor will it provide equipment or supplies.

4. In event such action requires counter-action by the Reds, the UN command still will maintain a state of truce.

MONEY, MEN AND MACHINES

Free Enterprise Held Key to U. S. Leadership

By WADDILL CATCHINGS and CHARLES F. ROOS

CHAPTER I

The pre-eminent position of the United States in the world today and its high standard of living are the direct results of competitive enterprise.

For more than three centuries our men and women have freely followed their own pursuits and have built up a vast productive power.

We have more and better tools than other nations. We make greater use of electricity, steam and oil. We apply more effectively our skills and know-how. We have developed marvelous methods of mass production.

We produce with much less effort than other people. That is why an hour of work in the United States today will buy far more than an hour of work anywhere else in the world.

That is why, in relation to other countries, we Americans have more food, clothes, houses, plumbing, cars, telephones, radios, TV sets, iceboxes, washing machines and hundreds of other conveniences; more in medical and hospital facilities; more opportunities for education and culture; more time for play and entertainment. All this has been accomplished by our system of competitive enterprise.

DEVELOP NEW IDEAS

Through this system we develop and use new ideas, improve our machines and extend our production. We put diligent, decisive people in charge of all kinds of activities. Adventurous men and women in every field of industry, commerce, finance and agriculture are always seeking ways to supply what buyers want.

They know that the cash register is a kind of ballot box which automatically gets rid of the weak and incompetent.

American production is based on teamwork. Materials are gathered from all over the earth and divided among an amazing variety of products, which are made by millions of men and women and then delivered for sale to buyers everywhere.

Even people who produce something for themselves get help from others, since they use materials or tools, seeds or chemicals, supplied by the work of thousands of other men and women.

Yet, no matter how plentiful our raw materials and labor supply, how wonderful our factories, how fertile our fields, we must have one more vital ingredient for actual production. That is money—plain dollars and cents. Without it, all our talents, all our tools, would be useless.

MONEY TOOL OF PROGRESS

Money is not merely a medium of exchange. It is a tool of progress and growth. In our world today, its circulaiton is the current that activates the economic life of 158,000,000 Americans.

Everybody works for money in our teamwork system of production—the manual worker, the brain worker and the capitalist are all paid for the parts they play. Wages, salaries, rent, interest, profits and dividends are rendered in money.

This provides income, and with the income we buy food, clothing, shelter, medical care, entertainment and all other goods and services. As producers we receive and use money for production. As consumers we receive and use money for consumption.

In short, when you combine money with men and machines, you have the three essentials to a healthy national life. This combination permits us to keep going and reap the rewards of our competitive-enterprise system.

Under this system, our planning is done mostly by businessmen. Better goods and services, new equipment and methods, more production or less production—our whole life is given pace and direction by the decisions made by businessmen.

PROFITS GUIDE PLANS

This planning is always guided by the twin factors of prices and profits. As prices move up and down, each businessman watches those which concern his own activities, weighs their effect upon his opportunities for profit. In this way, the price-and-profit mechanism relates the plans of each individual to the plans of all others.

Proof of this lies in the vast network of interwoven prices which extends through all our fields of industry, commerce and agriculture. Although the products are almost limitless in grades, qualities and styles, each has a price at each stage of production, and each price is related to other prices.

Throughout all the operations of our system, profits, especially high profits, are a strong force in achieving lower prices, more and better goods, new and improved services.

The earnings go where they are most needed. They enable low-cost producers to increase their output and gain large markets at low prices.

They supply the funds for extensive research by big companies like Ford, General Motors, General Electric—the kind of research that gives us such discoveries as television, radio, nylon and penicillin.

In our system, there are always high profits for the more efficient producers. This is true because costs vary while prices tend to be the same. Well-informed, thrifty buyers who are able to obtain a product at one price are not disposed to pay a higher price for the same thing.

Low-cost and high-cost producers, therefore, usually sell at much the same price. Consequently, when one person makes a "fair" or a "normal" profit, businessmen with more skill, or with superior production know-how will make more than the so-called fair or normal profit.

It is the plowing back of these profits for more and better production that provides 158,000,000 Americans with food, clothing and shelter, short hours of work, medical care, transportation, education, recreation, entertainment, and all the other things that comprise the highest standard of living in the civilized world.

TOMORROW: Why We Have Depressions.

World-Wide Jamboree Of Boys Urged by Nixon

JAMBOREE CITY, Calif., July 19—(AP)—A day of outdoor worship and relaxation at the Third National Boy Scout Jamboree was climaxed tonight by a massed convocation under the stars at which Vice-President Richard Nixon expressed hope that boys of every nation will some day gather in a great and peaceful world jamboree.

"Representatives from 16 other countries are sitting with you right now," said Nixon in a talk to some 45,000 scouts and leaders seated on the dark slope of a hill at the hub of this 3,000 acre ranch campsite.

ALL NATIONS

"Let us work toward the day when Boy Scout leaders from all the nations of the world may be able to gather together with you at just such an annual jamboree.

"The cause of brotherhood and peace on this earth could receive no greater testimonial."

Paying tribute to the Boy Scouts of America as an organization "dedicated to the cause of peace in this world, and not war," Nixon added:

"You have been taught and have learned yourselves what it is to be free—free to speak your own minds, to live your own lives and to worship God in your own way.

"You have not been instilled with the shameful arrogance of the dictatorial mind, the intense hatred and bigotry of those of your contemporaries behind the Iron Curtain who since boyhood have been taught to hate and to fear and to be contemptuous. . . .

SPIRITUAL

"That is why it is far more important than perhaps you realize that this extraordinary organization of yours has dedicated itself to the spiritual side of your growth as well as the physical and that the establishment of peace is the concern of everyone of you."

Aragon GI Doubts Early Truce; 'Let's Go All Way or Get Out', He Says

SEOUL, July 19—(INS)—An armistice may be near at Panmunjom but on the Korean battlefront a Georgia GI expressed doubt that a truce was imminent.

SFC Edward A. Wadsworth of Aragon, Ga., bluntly said he "didn't believe any of it" and explained:

"I don't know much about politics. I'm a soldier. But I don't think it's right to quit in the middle—go all the way or get the hell out of here.

"The Chinese are smart. They would have to back up when the demarcation is settled. But with all the ground they gained over the past few months they will still be protecting their well dug-in positions.

Night Work Ahead For Senators

Asserting that a bill to raise the debt limit would win quick congressional approval, Senator Knowland expressed hope that legislation can be passed at this session, too, on the administration's proposal to increase postal rates. Neither the House nor the Senate has acted on this proposition, still receiving committee study.

Senator McCarran (Dem., Nev.) has said the Senate will "know it is not going to get out by Aug. 1" if the refugee bill, providing for the admission of 220,000 special quota immigrants, is brought to the floor. The senator is fighting the measure just as hard as he fought the Displaced Persons Act in 1948.

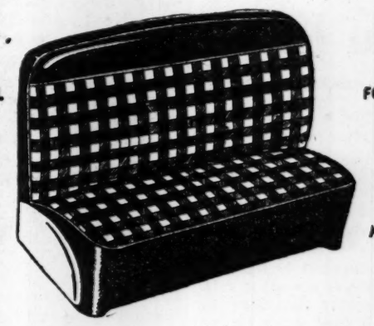

Opposition equally powerful is building up on the postal rate bill but Knowland, acknowledging the situation, said that Congress can work into August if necessary.

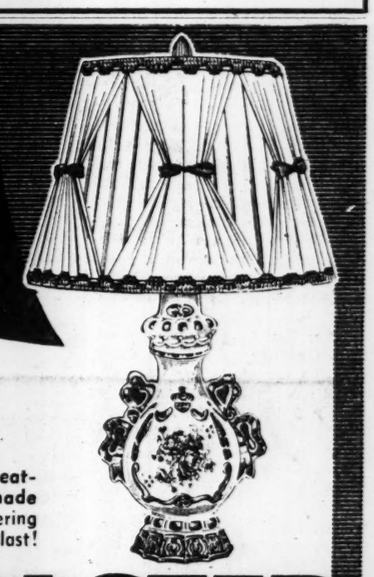

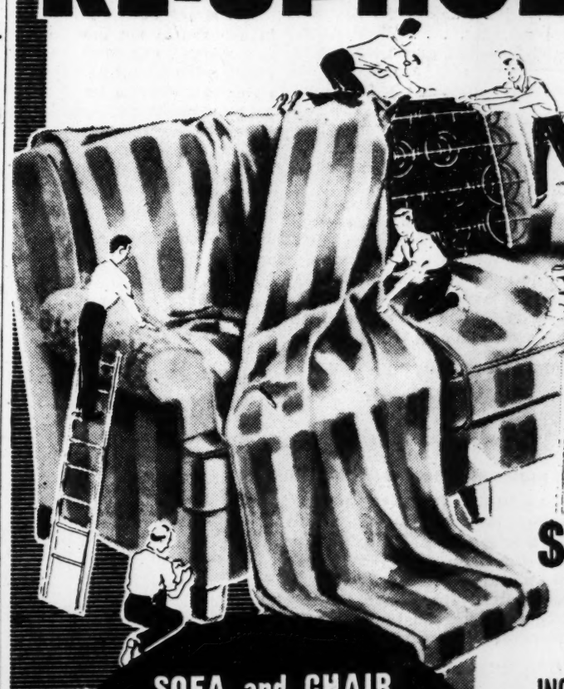

The Senate votes tomorrow on a bill, bitterly fought by the Democrats, authorizing the sale of government-owned synthetic rubber plants. The Democrats oppose, not the sale, but the terms of the sale which they contend favors monopoly practice.

Debate on the defense appropriation bill, also highly controversial because of the administration-backed $5,000,000,000 cut in funds for the Air Force, will begin in midweek after these bills are cleared.

Across the Capitol, the House will act tomorrow on the bill by Representative Mason, (Rep., Ill.,), lifting the admission tax as it applies to motion picture theater. With exhibitors suffering because of television competition, the measure which will cut federal revenues by upwards of $120,000,000 a year, is expected to win easy approval.

New Fashions Feature Equestrienne Themes

By AGNES McCARTY
Atlanta Constitution Women's Editor

NEW YORK, July 19—Horsehair gowns, paddock plaids, side-saddle sailors and tally-ho reds indicate there's a rough fashion year ahead for girls who can't say, "Whoa."

Brigance, Sally Victory, Emme and finally Ceil Chapman all had equestrienne themes for some of their creations.

Predictions of a backflowing silhouette for fall and winter came true after the last showing of the New York Dress Institute's couture group. Promises of "no strapless bodices" failed to de-materialize. They were popular.

Fur was used lavishly—the undefeated champion is still mink with ermine running second. Bows were used—mostly with every designer tastefully shying from calling them "fanny bows." Dress lengths and prices remained the same.

Black, varying shades of red and jewel-toned green led beiges and browns. Newest color coming into view was lavender. Polished satin led the evening fabric popularity poll while wool jersey and tweed were tops for casual and business wear. Velvets were shown but not played up. Printed wools made a spectacular arrival.

Belts were missing but in many instances wise designers admitted most daytime dresses would be offered with waistline markers to appease nonconformists.

Suits were plain—slightly shorter jackets. Skirts were very slim with many shallow hemline kickpleats used in sets of four. Coats were narrower but still slightly flaring.

Ceil Chapman's leading silhouette was the "skylark skirt." This had an elegantly draped but slim front ending in a sweeping back. Her swallowtail jacket was fitted and neatly curved over the hips and tapped a slim sheath dress—usually cut with a bowed neckline.

Short dinner dresses were so loaded with brilliants the collection rivaled the diamond weighing-in birthday celebration for the Aga Khan. A black over-all-horsehair dress with a wide skirt, princess lines and scooped neckline was the most unusual piece in the collection.

He combined the empire bustline with the trumpet skirt and turned little bowed, bolero jackets hind-side front to produce a rather weird effect. He called a high-necked, casually bloused top attached to a tight princess sheath (fitting like Scotch tape from below the bosom) a "Josephine seatshirt silhouette."

The idiom coiner's fabulous ball gowns were six or eight feet across the hem.

Modern Couture, designed by Helena Barbieri, presented its collection with the couture group for the first time. Cocktail and evening clothes were full-skirted with strapless bodices of slim sheaths featuring big side poufs or cascade backs.

Miss Dache will be making little popular priced hats called "Mademoiselle Lilly" next season. These are designed by the petite Parisienne but will be manufactured in mass production.

Lilly's workroom collection featured deep-sided turbans. One "cyclone turban" shot out at one side in a whirl of deep points and as a blend of several colors. Looked like the wind sock at municipal airport.

She preferred the helmet shaped hat but made one huge-crowned style trimmed with floating feathers. Lilly teamed a gemmed evening hat with a flower-covered evening bras. Miss Dache believes a hat is necessary at all times.

Garden Clubs' Editor Will Move to Texas

By YOLANDE GWIN

The departure of Mrs. W. W. Robertson for residence in Fort Worth, Texas, will leave a real gap in Georgia garden club circles.

As editor of Garden Gateways, the official publication of the Garden Club of Georgia, Mrs. Robertson has presented spicy news, instructive stories and garden club information in a way which has made the little magazine a must for all garden clubbers.

Her personality has been injected into many of the editorials and news stories. Although she has served only one year of her two-year term, she has done one of the best jobs as editor since the magazine was begun during the regime of Mrs. Thomas Berry of Rome, fourth president of the state group.

The magazine received national recognition several months ago in San Francisco when the Garden Club of America convention was held. Last spring the Georgia group marked its silver anniversary at a convention in Augusta.

Cognizant of this unfilled post — Mrs. Robertson leaves early in August for her new home—Mrs. A. N. Dykes, of Columbus, president of the Garden Club of Georgia, will meet with Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. William DuPre of Rome, and Mrs. Rembert Marshall at 11 a. m. Monday at the Piedmont Driving Club to select a new editor.

Mrs. Robertson is a member of the Flower Study Club and is a past president of the Junior Flower Show Association. She was named Atlanta's Woman of the Year in Civic Affairs for 1951. Her home here is at 3594 Kingsboro Rd., N. E.

ANTIQUE SHOW

Members of the Cave Spring Garden Club, up near Rome, met at the home of Mrs. Owen Lively the other day and decided to stage an antique show instead of a flower show.

The event, set for July 29 through Aug. 2, will take place at the old Baptist Church in Rolater Park.

A special feature of the event, of which Mrs. John Herndon is chairman, will be a prize of $10 for the oldest kitchen utensil still in use and exhibited at the show.

GARDEN TIPS

If clippings are left on the lawn when the grass is mowed, the only fertilizer usually needed is some form of nitrogen. Apply nitrogen fertilizer at the rate of three to five pounds per 1,000 square feet about once a month.

Most lawns, especially the St. Augustine and Bermuda grass variety, should be mowed at least once every seven to 10 days, depending upon the rate of growth.

Teen Council Officers Announced

New adult advisors are Miss Betty Yarbrough, Knight Park, and Paul Pressley, South Bend Center.

Final plans for the big city-wide hayride, picnic and dance at North Fulton Park are taking shape. This event for all teen-agers is scheduled Thursday, July 23, at 6 p. m.

Boys and girls will meet at their community centers before leaving for North Fulton. Each person will bring his own lunch and money for a swim.

MRS. SAM SMITH

Mrs. Smith is the former Sue Blackmarr, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis B. Blackmarr of Columbus. Her marriage to Lt. Smith, U. S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Smith of Gay, took place Friday at the First Presbyterian Church of Columbus. Lt. Smith has received orders to leave for duty in Germany on Aug. 11.

Mrs. Ritchie Hopeful on Equal Rights

News of the passage of the "equal rights for women" amendment by the U. S. Senate Friday was hailed by a Georgia club leader this week end as good news but not complete victory.

Mrs. Horace Ritchie of Athens, top legislative authority of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, forsees that passage of the bitterly fought constitutional change will be "much harder to accomplish" in the House of Representatives.

Reasons for the hurdles to come in the House, in Mrs. Ritchie's viewpoint, are:

1. A higher ratio of men to women in the House than Senate.
2. A past record of less sympathy for the amendment.

A stiffened offensive by her organization will be necessary, Mrs. Ritchie predicted, to insure passage of the law which would make women's equal-rights "air-tight" and do away with certain state's discriminatory laws.

PEO Sisterhood Group To Meet

A city-wide meeting of the reciprocity committee of PEO Sisterhood will be held at 11 a. m. Monday at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Special representatives of the five chapters will attend a business session at 11 a. m. Monday. The general membership will attend a luncheon meeting to follow at 1 p. m.

Luncheon speaker will be Mrs. James C. Davis discussing "Intimate Glimpses of Washington Life." Miss Marian McConnell will give piano selections. Mrs. Harold Umlandt is president of the group.

Annie Lou Hardy

Cmdr. Kidd To Become Vice-Adm. Joy's Aide

Lt. Cmdr. Isaac C. Kidd Jr. has not yet seen his third son, born July 4 at St. Joseph's Infirmary and christened Christopher Alexander. And it will doubtless be several weeks more before he has that thrill.

Commander Kidd is now commanding the destroyer Ellyson in the Atlantic. However, this tour of duty will come to an end early in September and he will join Mrs. Kidd, the former Angelique de Golian, at the Howell Mill Rd. home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix de Golian.

Then the family will go to Annapolis, Md., where Commander Kidd is slated to serve as aide and flag lieutenant to Vice-Adm. C. Turner Joy, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy.

It will be like homecoming for the Kidds, for the family lived in Annapolis before Commander Kidd was assigned to sea duty two years ago. Too, it will mean a reunion with Mrs. Isaac Kidd Sr., who makes her home there. The couple's other children are Cappy, Kevin and Angelique.

PROMINENT VISITORS arriving Sunday were Miss Frances Steed and Miss Lillian Young of New York, who are guests of Mrs. Anne Couper and her daughter, Miss Josephine Giudici, at 1383 Peachtree St.

Today the foursome will leave for Fernandina, Fla., for a stay of two weeks.

LEAVING SUNDAY for Cashiers, N. C., were Mrs. Meade R. Sutherland and Mrs. Edgar H. Greene, who will spend the next two weeks at High Hampton Inn.

THAT FORMER ATLANTAN, Mrs. George Archer of Greenville, Miss., is entertaining at a house party of Atlanta guests this week at the summer home at Monteagle, Tenn., of Dr. Archer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Douglas.

MRS. BENJAMIN T. CARTER leaves today to visit her son and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, in Rochester, Minn., for two weeks. Mrs. Scott is the former Julia Carter of Atlanta.

MISSES JOAN AND JOYCE LEVERTON of Arlington, Va., will spend this week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bell, on Linwood Ave., after spending the past two weeks at Girl Scout Camp Civitania.

WILMINGTON VISITORS — Here for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Howard See at their home on Westminster Drive are their daughter, Mrs. W. L. Shackelford, right, her small daughter, Betsy, and Mrs. H. B. Gage, all of Wilmington, Del. Mrs. Shackelford is the former Elizabeth See of Atlanta.

HOSPITAL NOTES—R. H. O'Farrell has returned to his home on Peachtree-Dunwoody Rd. after an operation at Emory Hospital. . . . Miss Emma Baird is recovering from an operation at Georgia Baptist Hospital.

BACK FROM LAS VEGAS are Lt. Richard A. Sidwell, U. S. Air Force, and Mrs. Sidwell, who are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Sidwell. After July 23 Lieutenant and Mrs. Sidwell will reside in Detroit, Michigan.

OKLAHOMA VISITORS in the city are Mr. and Mrs. Taxi Gardenhire of Seminole, who are guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Withers of Sylvan Hills.

FOLLOWING their recent marriage, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McKibben Jr. are residing at 705 Grove St., East Point. Mrs. McKibben, the former Delores Alexander, was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. J. M. Sandifer and Mrs. G. W. McKibben at the Sumner Park recreation room in East Point.

SCHOOL MARM GUARDS HUFF POSSESSIONS

Huff House Antiques Recall Ante-Bellum Days

By DOTTY LUNDY

A Russell High chemistry teacher owns a gourd that Confederate and Yankee troops used for dipping spring water during the Battle of Atlanta. A hand-hewn walnut chest with a hideaway for Rebel money is also among authentic relics from historic Huff House belonging to Miss Martha Galloway.

Miss Galloway, close friend of the Huff sisters, Miss Sarah and Miss Cordelia for over a decade, owns the largest single collection of effects from Atlanta's oldest house.

"There's only one other person in town that knows more about the Huff house than I do, Mrs. Arthur Pew Sr.," declares the jolly schoolmarm, referring to the weathered 98-year-old structure at 70 Huff Rd., N. W., which played a major role in the battle in 1864. Mrs. Pew was for years principal of a school near the Huff residence.

RESTORATION PLANNED

Plans are currently underway by the Georgia Educational Exchange to preserve the seven-room hard pine home and to refurnish it as it looked when Atlanta matrons gathered in the dining room to sew gray uniforms for their men at the front.

Miss Galloway became acquainted with the Huff sisters in 1932 through a friend who roomed with them. She often visited the elderly spinsters and was given many of their possessions for safekeeping after Miss Sarah's death in 1943. Miss Galloway still keeps in touch with the younger sister now at a nursing home.

A tale of terror and intrigue could be woven about many of Miss Galloway's possessions. Others are merely symbols of that lush, lamp-lit, lazy era before the War Between the States.

FED CONFEDERATES

The old bread board might have been used to knead loaves for fleeing Confederate troops. Rebel documents and bills were tucked away in the hand-pegged secretary which later held Miss Sarah's memoirs.

The hand woven bedspread and quilt were part of Mrs. Jeremiah Huff's trousseau in 1844 when she married the sister's father. The dainty china doll which was a gift to Miss Sarah in 1865 wears a dress fashioned from the 1790 wedding gown of the Huff sisters' great-grandmother, Celia Agee de Branford. Other furnishings include a velvet covered "recamier," a reclining sofa, an oil student lamp, old wash stand and a laboriously stitched sampler proclaiming "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling."

WAR NOTES

Miss Sarah, an avid note-taker, literally left pounds of correspondence in a childlike print. She and her sister were historians for the Atlanta Historical Society for over 50 years.

The secretary, with its seared pine base and cherry top contains ante-bellum porcelains and pottery. Two pieces have no connection with the Huff family but claim considerable value. They are a pewter sugar and cream which were given by Confederate General Garner to the father of Miss Galloway's maid, Viola King Jones.

Your Stars Today

DAILY GUIDE—Today can be one of changing moods and many small actions starting with a very early morning determination to be optimistic and confident. By dinner time a little irritation could creep in if you have been riding too high on a crest of enthusiasm, but during the evening you can think of something new, arrange some switch in plans or a surprise. The latter part of the night becomes increasingly emotional so better set a time limit on your social affairs. In the morning the women can think about beauty aids, clothes or social activities. All those with birthdays June 5-11 will find this a very socially favorable time, excellent for vacations, entertainment, shopping or short trips.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY CANCER! If you have not been faced with some radical changes or obstructions lately, then you should be prepared for something unusual to come along soon, probably in your domestic life. Some critical situation could slow up the works and keep you from being entirely free.

Celestine Sibley

A Letter and A Little Smile

There were five of us on the seats along the side of the front of the bus:

An elderly woman who kept muttering to herself and rummaging around in a big, old-fashioned reticule, pulling out the gas bill, the light bill, the water bill, the phone bill.

A gray-suited, suburban-type husband whose wife had probably driven him to the trolley and let him keep the morning paper to read the sports section on the bus.

A smart-looking model or buyer-type woman with bright, darting eyes that took in every new passenger from top to toe, letting her glance linger for a barely perceptible moment on the thing they were least happy about—a crooked stocking seam, a spotted shoe, lint on a sleeve.

We saw without seeing one another as we rode along, each of us caught up in our own brand of carefully nurtured isolation. And then the bus stopped to let on a pretty brown-eyed girl in a soft blue and white dress. She had run to catch the bus and as she ran she tore at the red and blue striped envelope of an air mail letter. Struggling with her token and her umbrella, she dropped the letter and none of us missed the fact that it was from overseas.

She retrieved it breathlessly, blushing as she caught five pairs of eyes trained on her, and then she collapsed into the single remaining seat and gave herself up to reading the letter.

We looked at her. We couldn't help it. She looked so pretty and so young. One white-sandaled foot hung itself childishly back of the ankle of the other foot and turned slightly as she read. A brown curl blew loose from her carefully brushed bangs and stood up in a soft little peak.

The old lady with the reticule put a paper clip on her bills and stuffed them back in the dim recesses of her bag. The student shifted the Eliot volume and opened it but did not read. The husband let the sports pages dangle unread in his hands. The sleek-looking one stopped giving boarding passengers that searching, predatory look and watched the letter reader.

She read every page as if she were memorizing it and the dimple deepened and then nudged her soft, red mouth into a wide smile. She finished the last page and started over again. This time the reading went faster and the smile was broader. When she came again to the last page she let out a long, blissful sigh and began folding and smoothing the letter with a tenderness suited to rose petals.

And the five spectators looked at one another, sighed in unison and tried to wipe the foolish, dreamy smiles from our own faces.

MARY HAWORTH

Worried Wife Discovers Husband's Secret Life

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Some months ago—after six years' marriage and one child—my husband started going out four or five nights a week without me. After pleading with him to either stay home or take me too, I left him and stayed away one day. Then I telephoned him saying I would come back if he would stop going out so much. He promised.

Two days after my return, a girl whom I considered a friend of mine was killed in a traffic accident. She had been on an outing with a large group of friends, my husband included; and when I went to view her remains, I saw she was wearing my husband's ring. Later he admitted they'd been having an affair for about six weeks.

He is deeply sorry and ashamed of what he has done, and tries in every way to atone to me; but I feel he was in love with her, and would have left me for her eventually, if she hadn't been killed.

I've had nightmares ever since it hapened and I've lost 35 pounds due to grief. I know I've been feeling too sorry for myself, but I don't know how to overcome it. I know I couldn't live without him, and I still love him, yet when I think of what he did I could almost hate him. He says forgiving means forgetting—but I just can't get it out of my mind. Please help me.—P. G.

DEAR P. G.: You are sick with multiple shock since learning of Steve's infidelity. Your concept of his misconduct strikes a series of hammer blows to your self esteem and shatters your earlier sense of security in marriage to him.

The considerable extent of his voluntary complicity in the girl's campaign of infatuation disturbs you profoundly on two counts:

First, you feel it as obscure disparagement of your love-self were adjudged defective or insufficient by him; as if you were found lacking in qualities and attributes he requires for full satisfaction of the heart. Second, it breaks up your image of him; robs you of faith and trust, destroys an old sense of familiarity with his character, and leaves you feeling lost in his embrace.

I think the truth of the matter is that Steve's misconduct was meaningless from his viewpoint. It was simply a case of weak surrender to errant temptation.

Regularity Gives Pattern To Slimming

By IDA JEAN KAIN

In the lazy days of summer it's easy to drift into eating at odd hours instead of having meals on a definite schedule. That way you're a cinch to wind up the season pounds heavier in spite of the best slimming intention.

This hit-and-miss living encourages poor food habits, worse, the protective foods are slighted, and as a result energy wanes.

This summer eat to beat the heat, and lose pounds. Don't slight breakfast. Experiments prove that a good breakfast boosts energy and heightens mental alertness, and this holds true in hot weather.

Lunch, too, is needed, and the noon meal can be light, but adequate. At any season, dinner is the meal most anticipated. Fine. . . but the important thing in a slimming summer is to have dinner on time. Eat all meals at definite hours, for it's this regularity that gives a pattern to your day.

The slimming menus in the series are built around foods that pull their own weight and so provide adequate nutrition at each meal. They are highly protective but low in calories and will help you not only to take off excess pounds healthfully but keep you from feeling as limp as wilted lettuce.

See State Farm Agent for Auto Insurance Savings

This month marks the end of the first year since Georgia's long-needed Financial Responsibility Law went into effect. Unaware that all auto insurance is not alike, in cost and service, thousands of Atlantans took out policies without investigating. Having learned the advantages of the low-cost benefits offered by State Farm Mutual, car owners from every section of the city are making application for protection by the company that writes more full-coverage auto insurance than any other as fast as their present policies are up for renewal.

According to J. B. Hawkes, State Farm sales manager, the old vaudeville joke that "every year one out of eight drivers has a wreck while the other seven have insurance," is far from true today. He cited a recent article in The American Magazine which showed how many firms who indiscriminately insure reckless drivers are forced to charge the most careful drivers an ever-increasing higher rate because the former policyholders have so many wrecks. "In this respect—as well as in many others," he said, "State Farm is vastly different."

Year after year, approximately 15 to 20 per cent of all motorists have approximately 80 per cent of all the wrecks. Obviously, a firm which avoids the "careless 15" can afford to charge lower rates.

SMASHUP!—The cost of State Farm Auto Insurance is trifling, but the consequences aren't. Motoring is happier when you know State Farm, the firm that writes more full coverage insurance than any other, stands ready to come to your aid day or night in case of accident. Call without obligation and check State Farm savings and other benefits.

That's what State Farm does. It can charge low rates while offering maximum protection and service, because State Farm aims to insure only careful drivers.

If you are a careful driver, you may be paying more than is necessary for your insurance. You can find out by calling one of the 10 trustworthy agents in the city. There will be no obligation—no high pressure sales talk, but simply a quotation of rates and benefits, and then you can decide for yourself.

Six of these agents have business offices in Room 213 of the Glenn Building, 120 Marietta St., N. W. They are J. S. Branham, M. L. Chambers, C. B. Dickinson, R. A. Richardson, Melvin J. Pugh and James R. Speer. Their telephone number is MAin 4305. Fred Brown is located in Buckhead at 3185 Roswell Rd., N. W., telephone EXchange 4681.

J. W. Bullock is located in Hapeville at 750 Virginia Ave., telephone CAlhoun 1171, while J. C. Duvall is located at 100½ N. Main St., East Point.

L. Guy Winters is located in West End at 847½ Gordon St., S. W., telephone FRanklin 2986. All agents are listed in the phone book should you want to call at night.

But the real test of automobile insurance comes after you buy it, that is, if you should have an accident. State Farm's enviable reputation for fast, fair claim settlement is another big reason why Atlantans prefer to do business with the firm that stands ready day or night to come to your aid in case of accident. State Farm cuts red tape—pays an average of one claim every 12 seconds, every working day. The man who sold you your policy will usually handle your claim.

Howard G. Ford, 1335 Goodwin Road, N. E., is a typical State Farm policyholder who had that accident he never thought he would have. He sums up his experience by saying: "Auto insurance is a trifle. Yes, but what a tremendous trifle—tremendous in its consequences if you do not have the right kind, trifling in its cost if you have the right kind. I had the right kind—State Farm—and today have nothing but gratitude for the agent who sold it to me."

If you plan to buy a new car soon, you'll want to know about State Farm's bank plan. You do your financing through a local bank, and together with savings on State Farm Insurance, you can save up to $125 or more. State Farm Insurance is a great name in fire, life and resident insurance, too.

Call the Orkin Man, EM. 4541, For Free Termite Inspection

Although the season for termite swarming is about over, the danger of termite infestation and damage is very real all year round. Termites never take a vacation! Right now termites may be silently working away in your home, destroying sills, joists and floorings.

Termites lived 50,000,000 years ago when prehistoric animals, now extinct, roamed the earth. But the termite has survived through the ages and has caused more damage to buildings than any other insect in history.

Because termites work hidden inside the wood their presence is seldom suspected until considerable damage has been done. Such damage may extend throughout a building before termites are found.

The safest, surest way to determine whether or not your property is being endangered by termites is to have an Orkin man make a free inspection. At no obligation to you, Orkin, the world's largest pest control company, will send an expert representative to your home or building to make a FREE INSPECTION.

Should your property need termite control, the Orkin man will show you the actual damage and give you his suggested plan for a thorough treatment, including necessary construction repairs.

Orkin's method of termite protection includes the following points: (1) replacing damaged timbers, sills, joists, flooring, subflooring, casing, etc.; (2) insulating wood at the soil; (3) installing proper ventilation; (4) thorough chemical treatment of soil and wood; (5) inspection of the property at intervals during the guarantee period; (6) issuance of a surety-bond, your guarantee of termite protection.

Orkin termite control is insured by one of America's leading bonding companies. The written guarantee is a surety-bond, not a mere warranty bond. It is double assurance that your home will be effectively treated and protected from termites. The Orkin guarantee is for five years, conditional upon the continuing of annual renewal after the first year and is subject to further extension after the first five years.

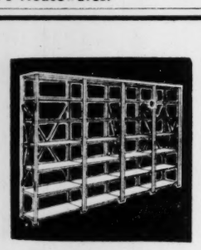

Fortune magazine has called the Orkin Co. the General Motors of the industry. Now in its 52nd year, Orkin has offices in principal cities of 24 states, the District of Columbia and the Island of Cuba, serving over 2,500 communities.

Orkin's staff of highly trained pest control operators has at its command every pest control device known to the industry. For positive control of rats, roaches, mice, flies, silverfish, ants, fleas, waterbugs, carpet beetles, call Otto the Orkin man. The cost of these services is low and economical.

New Liquid Kills Roaches and Ants

Scientists recommend that you control roaches and ants the modern way—with Johnston's NO-ROACH. Brushed just where you want it (not a messy spray), the colorless, odorless coating kills these pests. It's effective for months, sanitary, and so easy to use. 8 oz. 89c; pint 1.69; quart 2.98. Available at Rich's Housewares.

Simmons Plating Works One of Nation's Largest

Simmons Plating Works advises replating of old silverware when needed. It is false economy to allow a piece of silverware to deteriorate when the cost of replating is nominal.

The base metal of silverware should be protected with a coating of pure silver; otherwise, if left unprotected the metal will pit, oxide and scale form. By giving the silverware a coating of pure heavy silver plate you protect the article, it is easily kept, requiring very little cleaning and is a "thing of beauty and joy forever." Simmons has three large plants in Atlanta. Their main plant has been located for almost half a century at 219 Pryor St., S. W. This plant is the one that handles the silver and gold plating—the other plants do chromium plating and retinning. They specialize in gold, silver, nickel, brass, copper and special finishes. Every article left with Simmons is fully insured.

Call CY. 8646 and one of their representatives will call without obligation and discuss your silverware with you, the cost, etc. This old established firm, now one of the largest in the nation, maintains a large staff of silversmiths capable of turning out an unexcelled job. They have been faithfully serving the housewives of the nation for almost 60 years and their reputation is based on the quality of work turned out.

CHARLES LEWIS—An executive of the Simmons Plating Works for a number, of years, Mr. Lewis has been appointed general manager of the firm. Announcement of the appointment was made by Henry C. Simmons.

Home Loans at Peak

NEW YORK — The mortgage debt on one-to-four-family homes in the United States is at an all-time high of $58,200,000,000. The mortgage total increased $6,300,000,000 in 1952.

W. C. Caye Cites Leadership in Performance

Gorman-Rupp self-priming centrifugal pumps have long led the field in performance and dependability. A leadership now even more firmly established, for in every test these pumps have given amazing performances.

W. C. Caye Jr., vice-president of W. C. Caye & Co., distributors for Gorman-Rupp recounts one such test: "Recently, one of the Gorman-Rupp models was put to an amazing field test. It was placed on the bank of a shallow stream, and set to running. Then a man waded into the stream and tried to clog the pump deliberately with muck, gravel, cinders—anything that would pass the intake strainer. He failed. The pump simply did not quit despite his efforts. We attribute that to simplicity of design. There are no pipes, no jets to clog, no shut-off valve to jam, no packing gland, no hand priming regulator, and no built-in strainer. It looks to me that if anything is sucked into a Gorman-Rupp pump—it comes out the other end."

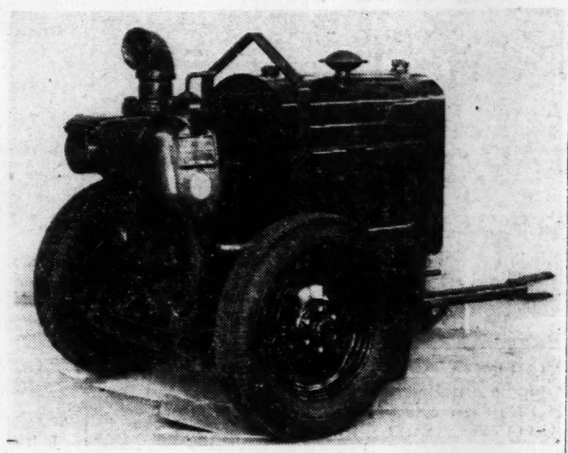

Thrilling stories like that dramtize the dependability of Gorman-Rupp models. They can be put on the toughest pumping jobs where other pumps have failed, or where the jobs look impossible, and they constantly demonstrate their ability to take it, like it, and deliver.

In fact, W. C. Caye & Co. is authorized by Gorman-Rupp to put a Gorman-Rupp Contractors' Pump on any pumping job, any time, anywhere, alongside any other make pump, size for size. The Gorman-Rupp pump is guaranteed to pump more dirty water more hours, using less gasoline and to prime quicker than any other self-priming pump. If it isn't the best all around pump, W. C. Caye & Co. will accept the return of the Gorman-Rupp pump and pay the user any installation expense inccured.

If you'd like to see this amazing performance-duel call, write, or see W. C. Caye & Co., 787 Windsor St., S. W. Or, if you're already sold on the ability of the Gorman-Rupp, and want more facts on model specifications, make inquiries at the address above.

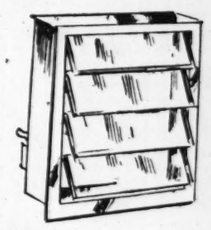

W. C. Caye & Co. also distribute the Pitman Hydra-Lift, Buck Portable Heavy-Duty hoist, products of Allis-Chalmers, Baker Manufacturing Co., Gar Wood Industries, Kwik-Mix, White Manufacturing Co. Jay Manufacturing Co., Smith Engineering Works, All Purpose Spreader Co., and many others. W. C. Caye & Co. especially invites construction men, contractors and builders to visit their demonstration area adjacent to their offices and plant at 787 Windsor St., S. W., to see them demonstrated.

In addition, they make a complete line of all types of reinforcing steel. Their line includes every item among the accessories and supplies required for all types of concrete work.

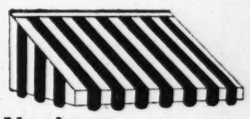

GORMAN-RUPP CONTRACTORS' PUMPS are streamlined where streamlining counts—inside. Story on this page tells how deliberate attempts to clog a Gorman-Rupp Pump failed. And it also explains the amazing performance challenge made by W. C. Caye & Co., Atlanta.

PROVEN SALESMEN
ONLY
EXPERIENCED salesman under 40 wanted for protected Georgia territory. Man must be a strong closer to sell an item paying an average commission of $125 for each sale; yearly potential $20,000-$25,000. This is a repeat proposition.
MAN selected will receive 3 weeks of intensive training in the Atlanta area during which time he will be guaranteed a minimum of $1,000 in earnings.
THE man we are looking for is presently employed and is limited in chance for promotion and increased earnings in his present position.
THIS man will have an excellent opportunity for promotion to a supervisory managerial position commensurate with his ability and effort. Only men desiring a permanent connection will be considered.
IF YOU believe that you can qualify for this position and are willing to spend one hour of your time listening to our proposition we are willing to spend our time doing so in the hope of finding the unusual man we are seeking. Write A. K., 81, Journal-Constitution, selling yourself in first letter, incl. age and telephone number.

EXPERIENCED
SALESMAN WANTED
HERE is a fine opportunity to join a not too large concern which has been in business over seventy years. They have a manufacturing plant in Atlanta to serve the Southeast and have a developed territory open in the Atlanta, Athens, Augusta area. You would be selling repeat specialty and staple items to all types of larger business organizations. You would be calling on bank cashiers, presidents, professional buyers, office managers, sales managers, and owners of companies, etc., so you must be of the same high caliber and be able to earn a similar income. Guaranteed salary until commissions exceed guarantee. We would prefer a man between 30 and 40 and he must have been a permanent resident of Atlanta for at least two years. If this sounds like the right job for you, write H. Y., Journal-Constitution, stating age, education, experience and telephone number. We will interview applicants starting Friday, July 24th.

A LIFETIME JOB
If You Can Qualify
IF YOU can sell, feel limited in your present job, want to work with a company that will encourage and help you to earn more year after year, and can meet our requirements, we offer:
1. AAA-1 57-year-old concern
2. Factory and field training
3. Protected territory
4. Established accounts
5. Unusual commission earnings
6. Complete line of repeat sale necessities

KNOW YOUR GEORGIA By C. J. Holleran

Georgia Had 9 Dictators at Once!

After the fall of Savannah in 1778, the Georgia government was in complete collapse. Governor Houstoun's term had expired and the members of the Assembly were so scattered that it was impossible to get a quorum together to elect a new chief executive. Working desperately, the handful of legislators who had gathered at Augusta finally succeeded in securing enough new members to take official action toward establishing some form of state control. They created a supreme council to take the place of a governor. The council consisted of nine men who were granted full powers of a dictatorship. The state constitution was temporarily abandoned as it had ceased to be of any value under existing war conditions. The council had the power to procure money, control the military, set up courts and local governing bodies. John Wereat was chosen the first permanent president of the group. The council was composed of honest men who had no desire to be dictators beyond the period of emergency; so Wereat called a meeting of the Assembly and a return to Constitutional government for the following January. A new group headed by George Walton sprang up in an attempt to forestall the meeting and gain control of the state during the confusion. The Continental Congress became so upset by the fantastic proceeding they dodged the issue of recognizing either party and placed $500,000 in the hands of General Lincoln to be used in getting the state on a governmental basis comparable to the other states in the new republic.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VanDELLEN

Good Posture Often Averts Shoulder Pain

Shoulder pain is common, often follows injury or strain, and is associated with rheumatism or bursitis. But when distress is most noticeable in the region of the shoulder blade, there is a possibility that the scapulocostal syndrome is responsible.

The disturbance usually begins in the area corresponding to the upper and inner corner of the blade and pain may shoot up into the neck or radiate down the arm.

Now and then it travels along the rib margins and ends in the breast. When this happens many victims suspect the old ticker.

As an aid in diagnosis many physicians inject a local anesthetic such as procaine into the spot that hurts most. When this relieves discomfort, the diagnosis seems certain.

Little can be accomplished unless posture is corrected by keeping the shoulders back. This stance should be observed when sitting, standing, driving, or pecking at a typewriter.

Avoid large pillows; a small pillow is preferred. By sleeping on the side, strain on the neck and shoulders is minimized. Sleeping on a firm mattress or inserting bed boards between springs and mattress will prevent the bed from sagging and the spine from curving.

An adequate brassiere with wide straps will support the breasts and ease strain on the shoulders. When the syndrome develops in those who are obese or pregnant, a proper fitting low back support and low heeled shoes help considerably.

Ollie Reeves

A Rhyme a Day

"Dressed as a woman and twice observed entering ladies' lounge, man is arrested when officer noted his 'knotty legs and other features not connected with a woman.'"—News item.

It is amazing to the man . . . who isn't a detective . . . to see the way those fellows can . . . move on to their objective . . . I guess they must be pretty smart . . . as well as strong and eager . . . and have to know just where to start . . . although the clues are meager.

That's why detective stories hold . . . such utter fascination and interest for young and old . . . which is an indication . . . that crime, somehow, has an appeal . . . folks like to read about it . . . although it's bad and many feel . . . that we could do without it.

The good detective will not quit . . . he doesn't get downhearted . . . he only needs a little bit . . . of help to get him started . . . and when he's running down some yeggs . . . or other sinful creatures . . . he knows them by their "knotty legs . . . and certain other features."

ASPCA Has Message For Garcia's Cat

By ROBERT SYLVESTER
Pinch-Hitting for Ed Sullivan

NEW YORK, July 19—The tragic tale of Emanuel Garcia's cat, which got locked inside the ruins of the burned-out Club 300 and is still being fed through a hole in the boarded walls by Garcia, brings a rather hurt note from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Excerpts herewith:

When a Mrs. Mitchell reported the case to us we sent agents to the former Club 300. We found two cats, which were removed. Neither belonged to Garcia. We went back a second time and will make a third investigation.

It is our belief that not only Garcia's cat but others go through the board partitions easily, and that they are on the outside as often as they are inside. If you have ever tried to board up an entrance it is almost an impossibility.

So if Garcia's cat wants any help from the ASPCA he'll have to step forward and identify himself.

Eddie Joy, of the Santley-Joy music firm, was on a Long Island Rail Road train which stood quietly for a long delay. Eddie asked the conductor what the trouble was.

"The train is behind because of a washout and the train ahead of that was behind before besides," he was told.

Interviewing Robert Alda on his theatrical carer, Vincent Lopez on his radio program asked Alda, "In which phase of show business do you get your biggest reaction?" Alda thought it over for a minute.

"When I'm working," he decided.

Music and Sports Tops on TV

Music and sports will take the spotlight on television Monday night. Singing stars Robert Merrill, Wilma Spence and Evelyn Brooks will hold down the principal assignments on two top musical programs.

For sports fans, the Crackers and the Lookouts will be seen at 8:10 p. m. on WSB-TV, while Lee Sala and Randy Sandy, meet in a 10-round encounter on WLW-A's boxing program beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Soprano Wilma Spence will be guest on the Voice of Firestone show at 7:30 p. m. on WSB-TV (and at 8:30 p. m. on WSB-radio). She will sing "I Love You So," from "The Merry Widow" and "Titorna Vincitor" from "Aida." The chorus will join her in "March of the Grenadiers" and "Now the Day Is Over."

Robert Merrill

Merrill will be featured on the Opera vs. Jazz show at 6.30 p. m. on WLW-A. He will sing the classics while Evelyn Brooks will warble the popular tunes.

Furman Bisher, sports editor of The Constitution, will be featured in interviews with members of the Cracker and Lookout teams prior to the game Monday night. His Warm-Up Time telecast begins at 8 p. m.

Arlene Francis makes her last appearance on Talent Patrol Monday at 7 p. m. when she emcees the servicemen's show on WLW-A.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠K J 10 2 ♥Q J ♦J 9 ♣A K Q J 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	?

A.—The big event cast its shadow before it when partner made his first rebid of two hearts. This is known to the trade as a "reverse bid" and designates a powerful holding, for after this bid, responder, if he wished to return to diamonds, would have to climb to the three level. A reverse bid should normally be based upon a holding of about 19 points (though some of them may be distributional points). When North subsequently jumped to three no trump, he indicated that his values were principally high cards rather than distribution, and furthermore that he had more than a mere 19. You have 18 high card points, which means the opponents will be lucky to have as much as a queen, and a bid of seven no trump is in order

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A J 9 6 5 2 ♥K 9 ♦Q J 10 2 ♣J

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
3 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—We dislike to tax your credulity by announcing that lightning has struck twice, but here we are again with a problem in simple arithmetic. Partner's opening bid of three no trump promises at least 25 high card points. You have 12, assuring at least 37 points, which with a six card suit makes the winning of 13 tricks a moral cinch. We recommend a bid of seven no trump with apologies for placing you in this rut.

Q. 3—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠4 ♥Q 10 6 3 2 ♦8 4 ♣A Q 9 4 2

What is your response?

A.—Four hearts. This hand is not quite strong enough in high cards for a three heart bid, and the preemptive raise is therefore recommended. It may be very effective in shutting out an adverse spade bid.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠Q 10 9 6 3 ♥3 ♦6 2 ♣K Q J 8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 spade	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—Even though you have the playing strength to justify a redouble, that call is not recommended. We prefer a bid of four spades, which has the merit of preventing the opponents from getting together and possibly pushing you beyond your depth.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠A 8 6 4 ♥A 10 9 8 5 ♦10 9 3 ♣4

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand rates one more try, and the suggested call is three hearts. If partner's raise has been minimum, he may pass. If, on the other hand, he had a little elbow space, he may decide to go to game.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠9 4 2 ♥A K ♦A K Q 10 ♣A K 7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Since you are now assured that partner will respond to your next bid, there is no great necessity for jumping. A slam contract is definitely in the offing, and you should take it easy as the best means of ascertaining as to which denomination will prove most playable. Bid three clubs and await your partner's reply.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠Q J 9 8 2 ♥A 5 ♦10 4 2 ♣A Q 6

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—While it may be tempting to double the two-spade bid, we lean toward a pass. Despite your impressive holding, you must remember that your spades are unfavorably located under the declarer, and while it is likely you will defeat the contract, it is not apt to be a complete slaughter.

Q. 8—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠Q 8 4 3 2 ♥A 10 4 ♦K 9 5 ♣8 3

What is your response?

A.—Two hearts. A response of one spade should be avoided, for it might lead to complications. This hand is not strong enough to justify two forward moving bids. In support of hearts it is worth only nine points and therefore comes within the limit of a single raise.

Joseph Orme Dies At 78, Rites Today

Joseph Priestley Orme, 78, great-grandson of Sir Joseph Priestley, British scientist, who discovered ordinary oxygen in 1774, died Sunday morning in a private hospital. His residence was 2420 Peachtree Rd., N. E.

His grandfather, Joseph Thompson, was one of Atlanta's first physicians and probably erected what was Atlanta's first hotel at Five Points in 1847.

Mr. Orme had been associated with the Hart & Quin Insurance Co. in Miami, Fla., for many years before returning to Atlanta last May. He was a member of the Capital City Club, the Piedmont Driving Club, and the Nine O'Clock Club. He was the son of the late Col. Will P. and Jane Thompson Orme.

Graveside services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at Oakland Cemetery. The Rev. M. L. Wood will officiate.
